

ROOFTOP LOOKOUT posted on top of the fifth-floor Dr. Binney Wing of St. Elizabeth Hospital Wednesday morning, Ken Albury, a security officer at the hospital, serves as a lookout for approaching storms, simulating a tornado alert. The hospital was chosen as a spotter location because it is one of the tallest buildings. The statewide tornado drill was conducted by the National Weather Service in cooperation with the Illinois Emergency Services and Disaster Agency. Civil Defense, Madison and Kansas also participated in the drill.

Area weary of cold, snow

Snow, 3 to 4 inches of it, fell during the night Tuesday night and again Wednesday morning.

Streets in the Quad-City area were extremely slick this morning and caused dangerous driving conditions, particularly at intersections and on streets where cars were parked on both sides. Ice ruts and packed snow made driving control particularly difficult.

Supermarket accidents, most of them involving car damage only, were reported throughout the area. A total of 15 accidents was reported in Granite City alone Wednesday.

Cleveland Boulevard, Benton and other streets were reported to be in ice-covered condition and Madison Avenue, where heavy traffic usually runs north and south, remained ice-packed this morning.

Despite the heavy snow, Quad-City area schools operated as usual Wednesday. School buses operated after early morning inspections indicated virtually all roads were passable, although slippery.

R. J. Davis, superintendent of schools, reported a 77 percent attendance during Wednesday classes. Robert Vickers, superintendent of schools at Venice and Madison Superintendent John Patchett at Madison reported absenteeism was light. Throughout the Illinois-Missouri metropolitan area more than 400 schools were closed Wednesday.

No additional snow was in the immediate forecast, but the National Weather Service said temperatures will Investigate severe beating

Ralph Drennen, 24, of 1012 Grand Ave. was beaten severely at Niedringhaus Avenue and Chestnut Street at 5:40 p.m. Tuesday and was taken to Virgil Desloge Hospital, St. Louis, with head injuries.

Drennen suffered about six deep cuts to his head and a fractured skull when he was beaten with a metal pipe or club. Authorities said the injuries may require neurosurgery.

A 33-year-old man is being held pending approval of a felony charge today by the Madison County state attorney's office. He was arrested at his home in the 2100 block of Edison Avenue at 4:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Drennen was driven in his own car to St. Elizabeth Hospital by Leo Nighobossian, 1723 Chestnut St., who said he looked from his home and saw Drennen's car sideways on Niedringhaus Avenue at Chestnut Street with Drennen lying in front of it.

He went in Sammy's Tavern and asked people there to call for an ambulance and return to the auto.

Deciding he could get Drennen to the hospital faster by auto, Nighobossian asked someone nearby to help put Drennen in the victim's auto and Nighobossian then drove him to the hospital.

Officers were called to the emergency room, but were unable to obtain a statement from Drennen due to his injuries. They checked his auto and found a large amount of blood in the passenger side.

Officers continued their investigation, contacting persons who were in the area when the incident occurred. They learned Drennen had been in a nearby tavern most of the afternoon Tuesday.

A witness alleged seeing Drennen driving his car in tight sliding circles in the tavern's parking lot and then driving onto Niedringhaus Avenue, where the circles were repeated and Drennen's auto nearly struck a black Volkswagen.

The witnesses said the driver of the black auto and Drennen yelled at each other and Drennen threw a snowball at the other driver and then started walking to the black car, police were told.

Words were exchanged and Drennen was alleged to have shoved the driver of the black car who then used a pipe or club to strike Drennen on the head about six times, the witnesses related.

Police went to Niedringhaus Avenue near Chestnut Street where they noticed blood in the snow, but were unable to locate a club or pipe.

They were told a snowplow had come down Niedringhaus Avenue after the incident and may have moved the weapon, if one was left at the scene.

Reject fire station bids

Two bids for purchase of Granite City's old Nameoki fire station at Nameoki Road and Ames Avenue were rejected by the Granite City Council Tuesday night without plans to call new bids, at least for the time being.

The bids were rejected on a motion by Alderman Earl Baker, chairman of the committee's fire and water committee. The motion was based on bids received by the council a week ago, including an offer of $41,150 by the Grithoff Agency of Granite City, and a lower offer of $33,137 by Fred McCollegan, also of Granite City.

Baker told the council that an appraisal of the building several years ago set the building value at $51,000.

After Baker's motion to reject the bids was approved,

Alderman Clyde Boyd asked Baker if it was the intention of the committee to call new bids.

"Not right now," Baker replied.

The fire station building was

City checking rail crossings

By PATFOLEY
Press-Record Staff Writer

When was the last time you drove over a railroad crossing and thought, "When are they going to do something about these tracks?"

Well, if you drive in Granite City, very much you probably thought the same thing last week of this week. The crossings, more often than not, are rough.

The city has an ongoing program to alert the railroad using a particular crossing of hazardous conditions at the tracks and to the immediately surrounding area.

The Granite City engineering department, headed by Monroe Fryer, is alive and well and works on grade separation problems regularly.

Every six months, the department surveys local railroad crossings and makes

HARRIS SCHOOL STUDENTS in Madison take protective positions in a ground-floor corridor of the school at 10:15 a.m. Wednesday during an emergency preparedness tornado exercise. The elementary pupils learned to avoid being near window areas when there is severe weather.

Drill shows weak points and readiness

Illinois Governor James R. Thompson has declared March as "Disaster Preparedness Month" throughout the state and, as part of the observance, a statewide tornado drill was conducted Wednesday at 10:15 a.m.

Participating were units of the Granite City Emergency Services and Disaster Agency (Civil Defense), and local schools, hospitals and law enforcement agencies.

During the exercise, members of the Citizens Band Emergency Radio Team (CBERT), an affiliate of Granite City Civil Defense, were dispersed throughout the Quad-City and Madison County areas as weather watchers, ready to report any sightings to base stations.

A base station was operated in the Civil Defense Building, 1411 Nineteenth St., and another at a private residence outside the city limits.

Under actual emergency conditions, several key members of CBERT would report to the CD building, where all inter-agency and other communications would be coordinated through the civil defense director, according to Mrs. Wilma Levert, who directed CBERT's part in yesterday's drill.

The initial warning message originated from the National Weather Service (NWS) office in Kansas City, Mo., to its Chicago station and down through the Illinois Emergency Services and Disaster Agency and Illinois State Police communications networks.

Granite City police, who have responsibility for activating the community's network of warning sirens, were notified Tuesday that procedures for the drill enabled department personnel to sound the sirens at 10:15 a.m. Wednesday and this procedure was followed.

Official notification of the test, transmitted via the Illinois National Law Enforcement Teletype System (NLETS) to Granite City police headquarters, was not received until 10:22 a.m.

Special radio units, called 10-10's, located in local schools, St. Elizabeth Hospital, the civil defense center and in many industrial firms, were activated at 10:17 a.m., with a voice message stating the exercise had started.

The schools and hospital's test drills, however, went into action immediately the siren network sounded, a routine procedure which is correct, according to Harold Mayfield, Granite City deputy CD director.

It was noted only two minutes elapsed between activation of the 10-10 radio receivers (10:15 to 10:17), but a total of eight minutes was lost before the procedure was followed.

Attends UAW meet on noise control

Noise Control in Industry was the topic of a United Auto Workers UAW conference in Washington, D.C. which was attended by Willard Herring, 2300 Higgins Ave., president of Local 1715 of Granite City.

Among the speakers was Dr. Eula Bingham, assistant United States Secretary of Labor in charge of Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA).

It was noted by Dr. Bingham that the government is spending only $1 million to help workers and $5 million for noise pollution control.

Dr. Bingham said that 18 million workers need help for hearing problems and that everyone should have a hearing test at least once a year, according to Herring.

Dr. Bingham also stated the UAW had one of the best training and education programs in the United States.

A study of noise control showed that Sweden, by the use of hydraulic lifts, made a remarkable reduction in noise control and the OSHA representative said that of the industrial nations, Japan leads in curbing industrial noise.

Herring said that OSHA is ready to "fight in the courts" any company that does not meet the noise control standards of safety.

Topics and presenters at the conference were: "The UAW's Program to Fight Noise," by Douglas A. Fraser, president of the International UAW union; "Action On Noise Control," by Mark Strupp, vice president UAW; "Overview of the Noise Problem," by Melvin A. Glusker, director UAW Social Security Department; "Industrial Noise Can Be Controlled," by Lyle Verges, consulting engineer.

Focus on independent River Fest promoter

The possibility of contracting with an independent promoter for operation of the Mississippi River Festival (MRF) on the campus of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville is "a reasonable and attractive course of action," according to a progress report submitted to SIUE President Kenneth A. Shaw on Monday by the university's Ad Hoc MRF Committee.

The progress report also proposed to Shaw that the committee should be charged with the responsibility of continuing its work with independent promoters in order to develop evaluative recommendations on or before April 1 regarding a summer 1978 MRF program.

Dr. Ralph W. Ruffner, senior vice-president for planning and review at SIUE and head of the committee, said that if the president accepts the recommendation, it will mean the committee can continue to focus on independent promoters who have expressed an interest in the River Festival.

Representatives of four firms in the music and entertainment business were interviewed last week as the committee considered the possibility of contracting with an independent promoter for planning and review of the festival.

Dr. Shaw established the ad hoc study group in a report to the SIUE Board of Trustees on Feb. 9. His initial charge to the committee was to develop recommendations pertinent to the question, "What is the best way for the university to organize itself in order to plan and implement a summer 1978 MRF family and youth entertainment program?"

The president indicated three apparent options: contracting with an independent promoter, utilizing a professional "talent buyer," or taking the "in house" approach.

"In its nine years of operation, the MRF has recorded more than one million attendance and has become nationally known with appearances by most of the major artists in the entertainment business of the past decade."

Vadalabene, Maragides and O'Neill vying for Senate

Who will represent the Quad-Cities and the remainder of Legislative District 36 in the Illinois Senate after this year's election?

U.S. will strongly favor whoever wins the Democratic primary on March 21, and the apparent front-runner is the incumbent, State Senator Sam M. Vadalabene of Edwardsville.

There is a three-way primary race between him and Steve Maragides of Granite City, a candidate for other elective offices in past years, and Dan O'Neill of Alton, a former state representative elected in the "bedsheet ballot" year when all Illinois House candidates ran statewide. No one filed for senator on the Republican ticket, but an incumbent may be chosen between the primary and general elections to appear on the ballot in November.

Vadalabene is running on his record of 12 active years in the Illinois legislature, including the securing of many multi-million-dollar improvement projects for this region.

His opponents say that more should have been done, and Maragides is emphasizing the view that Granite City should have one of its residents in the Senate.

"Senator Sam" has served in the Illinois Senate since 1970. Prior to his election to the Senate, he served two terms in the Illinois House of Representatives.

"After the tremendous show of support for me in the last election, I feel that I have a duty to the district to use my experience and the security I've secured to deal with the many problems the area is facing," Vadalabene says.

"Anyone who knows me at all knows how much I enjoy working in the Senate. More important, however, Vadalabene continued, "in the sense that I am accomplishing things for the people who live in the 36th District."

Many of these citizens have benefited from his help and support. I want to keep doing the best I can for them in years to come.

"If there is one general goal I intend to set for myself in the immediate future, it will be to try to create a stronger spirit of unity and cooperation among all the representatives of this great area."

"We must recognize that we are interdependent. With our combined strength, we will ensure the pursuit of the area's interests through the legislative process."

"Although we are bringing differing views to the legislative and problems of our area, through fair competition we can reach the solutions in order to realize the region's potential."

"In our efforts to achieve the betterment of our population, there is more to unite than to divide us as we continue our tasks and our energies."

"As a candidate for re-election, I believe my record will be persuasive in illustrating my ability — Senator Sam stands for service."

He is predicting that the General Assembly will pass a special appropriation this spring to finance preparation of plans for construction of a gymnasium facility at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

An initial $200,000 planning allocation was approved last year and more is sought this year, leading up to ultimate construction funding, estimated at $10 million for the multi-purpose building.

"It will be a continuous fight, but I'm optimistic. Legislators have not forgotten how we were deprived of a civic center that could have been used part of the time by the university."

O'Neill has been critical of Vadalabene's handling of some of the funds raised during the Michael Blumberg gubernatorial campaign in 1976 but has withdrawn the comments after learning more details.

Sen. Vadalabene has been described as the state's most effective senator.

His many related duties have included serving as chairman of the Illinois and Village Municipal Problems Committee and vice-chairman of the Illinois Environmental Commission.

He has headed the legislative battle with the state's planning agencies and has served as chairman of the Senate's committee on economic development.

Maragides cites long involvement in citizenship tasks, and has stressed during the campaign that he would vote to ratify the Equal Rights Amendment, which Sen. Vadalabene has opposed.

The incumbent is 40 years old, and the Granite City lawyer, 41.

has called for passing legislative responsibility to "a new generation" that has "the vigor to handle the physically demanding chores of being a legislator."

Maragides, who ran two years ago for Madison County clerk's attorney, is a former Illinois association attorney general and former assistant Madison clerk's attorney. He has served as an Illinois Bar Association department officer.

The Granite City, formerly of Madison, has proposed a legislative study of medical malpractice insurance costs and the impact on health care costs.

He says ERA ratification would give permanence for rights already won and would ensure equality in the future.

A statute does not carry the permanence of a Constitutional amendment. What one Assembly session gives, another can take away.

Also an attorney, O'Neill, 35, says he is running "because this area isn't moving. It's got nothing to show for its representation in the Senate."

"We've got no airport, no dam replacement, no civic center or expansion had and no economic stimulus. We need new directions and new leaders to get our area moving again."

O'Neill has been an assistant state's attorney, a law clerk to the Illinois attorney general and an election specialist for the State Board of Elections.

He says, "My record in the past was good for teachers and labor, and it will continue to be so."

He favors ERA ratification.

A teacher, he is a son of the late Schaefer O'Neill, a former legislator.

More testimony due in Vincent hearing

A suit by former Madison County Sheriff's Department dispatcher Michael Vincent of Granite City against Madison County Sheriff John Maurer will go into its third day of hearings Monday in Springfield as Federal Judge Wade Ackerman hears testimony from several witnesses, including Sheriff Maurer, in Springfield.

Judge Ackerman said the case is very detailed and he needs more information before making his ruling, so he called for Monday's session in Springfield.

Vincent, who is represented by Attorney Jack Strimlin, is seeking reinstatement as a dispatcher and $100,000 in damages.

Erlenborn fighting labor reform bill

(Press-Record Washington Bureau) — Although the House has approved an AFL-CIO-backed labor reform bill, Rep. John N. Erlenborn, R-Ill., is not letting up on efforts to kill or amend it.

Erlenborn is mustering support for a Senate filibuster to block a vote on the bill. The legislation would make it easier for unions to organize and would provide stiffer penalties for businesses and industries which ignore National Labor Relations Board orders.

If a filibuster fails, Erlenborn hopes the bill can be amended to the point that organized labor loses its enthusiasm for it. Erlenborn is not taking the direct step of lobbying Senate colleagues to commit themselves to a filibuster or amendments. Instead, he has taken to the stump, urging businessmen across the nation to contact their senators and voice their concerns.

"I do not like to get advice from senators, and I do not like to give them advice," Erlenborn said. "What I do is give advice to the constituents of the senators—people who I think they are much more likely to listen to."

That type of tactic has been effective, if the evenly divided 50-50 pro and con positions received in January by Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., are any indication. Erlenborn said he believes opponents of the measure are close to having commitments from the 41 senators necessary to block any vote to end a filibuster.

Percy is not among those pledged to continue a filibuster. Although he opposed the bill as now drawn, he does not support such dilatory tactics, as well to the senator said. If the filibuster fails, Erlenborn believes provisions of his "employee rights" bill can be amended into the labor reform bill in the Senate—something he was unsuccessful in doing in the House.

"The amendments could not be offered in the House because we got a fast shuffle on the rules," Erlenborn said. "They were ruled out of order on the grounds they were not germane to the bill. But the Senate does not have a germane rule, and there are many appealing things in there for the Senate."

Erlenborn's "employee rights" package contains a number of provisions that are anathema to organized labor. The Glen Ellyn Republican not only would require secret ballot elections to determine union representation, but also on whether to call, maintain or rescind a strike.

Employees could petition for an election on whether or not employees support continuing a strike. Erlenborn also would bar unions from firing members who crossed picket lines, or from soliciting contributions to union political funds by the "check off" system in which a specified amount is deducted from an employee's paycheck. He would allow employers to fire employees who continue striking after a majority of employees vote to end a strike, and would broaden the rights of employers to make statements—but not threats or promises—during organizing campaigns, bargaining, strikes or other disputes.

"Many of these would be difficult for the Senate to vote against," Erlenborn said. "If they get included in the bill, it will make it much less palatable to organized labor. If it is modified greatly, unions may have their order for the bill and it may fall along the way. If amendments are added to the bill in the Senate, it will have to go to a House-Senate conference committee to resolve conflicts between the two versions."

Erlenborn, by virtue of his position on the House Education and Labor committee, would be one of the cosponsors. He thus would have one more chance to get on his ticks. In the meantime, while the Senate is tied up with the Panama Canal treaties, Erlenborn will continue prodding people into making themselves heard on the Senate floor.

Heated races for many political party precinct committee positions

Political party structures are reshaped every two years, and intense struggles currently are being waged in many Quad-City area precincts to capture committee positions in the March 21 party primaries.

Democratic competition in Granite City Precinct 11 pits together Assessor Von Dee Cruse, a longtime party leader, and Willard Herring Sr., a union official who is conducting an active campaign.

Participants in Nameoki Precinct 1 (D) three-way campaigning are Pontoon Beach Village President Floyd David Moss, 26 Victoria Drive, William L. Luchin Sr., 30 Lakeview Drive, and Lillian Singer, 38 Victoria Drive.

Among unopposed committee candidates are Madison Mayor Mike Sasyk, who is one of those mentioned as possible candidates for the Madison County Democratic chairmanship, and the present county party leader, Granite City Supervisor Nelson Hagnauer, who has said he will retire from the county Democratic post.

Both parties reorganize at the township and county levels through meetings of newly elected committeemen a few days after the spring balloting in each even-numbered year.

The redistricting of some precincts added five precincts to Granite City and one to Nameoki Township, causing some incumbents to be placed in new or different districts.

Democratic filings show opposition for 20 of the 37 committee posts in Granite City Township, leaving 17 candidates unopposed and assured of election in the March 21 balloting.

Hagnauer is unopposed in his bid for re-election as Precinct 28 Democratic committeeman, as is Margaret Nann, a Granite City alderwoman, who is committeewoman of Precinct 29.

Glen Spankile, also a City Council member, is unopposed in Precinct 20.

Democratic precinct committeemen races in Granite City, with the incumbent marked by a plus (+), are:

notes on the maintenance of the tracks, crossings and even weeds along the crossing areas.

Recently, the department started its usual survey and has also taken pictures to support its findings. The photos not only include rails and crossings but the surface between tracks, the potholes which abound at crossings.

The department has concentrated the study on the crossings at West Pontoon Road, 22nd and 25th Streets.

Plans for grade separation at 19th Street are progressing. At Niedringhaus Avenue and at 20th Street, there will be widening and resurfacing as well as automation of the warning gates now operated manually.

The Niedringhaus crossing work will cost about $300,000, and the proposed improvements at 20th Street will cost about $50,000.

Total cost of the city probably will be about $35,000 for both projects.

A major problem at the West Pontoon and 25th Street crossings is an abrupt rise of the street level for eastbound traffic.

At West Pontoon Road, the difference between the street level and the height of the railroad tracks is upward of four feet. At the 25th Street crossing, the difference is more than six feet, engineers assert.

Chuckholes head the list as the most frequent maintenance problem, followed by loose rails and crossties, with weeds also rating high in the survey.

Letters are sent regularly to the five major railroad companies citing such inadequacies. The five are: Conrail, Norfolk and Western, Illinois Central Gulf, Terminal Railroad Association and Illinois Terminal Railroad.

The railroads respond promptly by letter, acknowledging the department's letter and reporting that something will be done when the weather improves. Of course, the weather strongly affects crossing quality during the winter months.

Suggestions have been made by some of the companies to close either the Niedringhaus Ave. or 20th Street crossing, or both, in view of the 18th Street overpass projects, to lessen the railroads' burden of grade crossing maintenance.

Since both of these crossings are now scheduled for improvement, there seems little chance that the city would agree to either crossing being closed. The overpass planning is proceeding, and all signs are favorable, but it will be an immense task to complete.

Perfection has not been achieved, but the next time you travel across one of the many railroad crossings, remember that someone, including the city engineering department, is "doing something about those tracks."

On the recommendation of the police committee, Lawrence J.

Gavinsky, 26, of 1313 Iowa St. Madison, was hired as a probationary policeman.

Gavinsky will begin his duties on Thursday, March 16.

This brings the Madison police department to a strength of 12 commissioned officers, including the chief of police.

Major crimes dropped from 36 in February, 1977 to 27 this year, for a 25 percent decrease, according to a police report.

A fire department report for February showed three building fires, one car fire and an inhalant call with an estimated loss to buildings of $8,200 and estimated loss of $2,700 to contents.

Fire Chief Eldon Rhoads reported that the new fire truck should be delivered fully equipped by the end of April.

Pending approval of the city building inspector, the council authorized the building of a 50 by 50 foot addition to Waggoner Trucking Co. The new addition will be used as basically for parts and storage. Cost of the addition was estimated by Mayor Mike Sasyk at $80,000.

Recreation Director Sam Dymas reported that the exercise room is being used by 20 to 30 women during the scheduled hours.

"We have had two teen dances in the last month and we had about 200 at our first and about 250 at the second. With the help of the Press-Record our activities are well attended and we have had no problems at all," Dymas said.

"Our summer softball league on the Third Street diamond will have 32 men's teams and six to eight women's teams."

The council concurred.

A letter was read from the pastor of the Polish National Catholic Church lauding the work of the city street department in clearing the streets during the bad weather.

"Madison will be represented by a local team in the State Class A softball tournaments as Victory and Voloski are the defending state champions," Dymas concluded.

Third Ward Alderman Thomas Gordon said, "Last meeting we adopted a vehicle sticker fee and unfortunately we did not set a cost figure for motorcycles and motor bikes. I would like the legal department to draw up the necessary amendment to include these types of vehicles requiring them to pay the same fee as an auto."

The council concurred.

Pontoon man freed on bond

Jerry McCabe, 24, of 3300 Central Lane, Pontoon Beach, was released on $1,000 bond at 4:30 a.m. today after being charged with aggravated assault.

Answering a report of a woman screaming, police went to the 3900 Gaslight Walk area and as they approached saw a white male leave in an auto. Police noted the license number, make of auto and description as they approached the scene.

A woman told police that she was coming home from work at 2:30 a.m. today and noticed a vehicle following her. As she was at the door to her residence, looking for the key, she turned and allegedly saw a man with what she believed was a "pipe" in his hand.

She screamed and the man fled.

Police found a tire tool near the victim's apartment and tagged it as evidence. McCabe was arrested at his home.

UNITED FRIDAY FOR GROVER COLLINS
Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Friday at Mount Nebo Baptist Church, Madison, for Grover Cleveland Collins, 71, of 709 Jefferson St., Madison.

He died Sunday, March 5, at Pleasant Rest Nursing Home, Collinsville.

He was retired employee of National Lead Co.

Survivors include his wife, Mrs. Lillie Mae Collins.

reach into the low 40s by this afternoon.

A high about 50 is predicted for Friday through Sunday.

Snow began falling in mid-morning Tuesday when dropping temperatures changed the rain into snow. As the day wore on, the National Weather Service changed its predictions of one to three inches to four to six inches. Snow fell throughout the day for a total fall on Tuesday of 6.8 inches, according to the weather service.

Weather records at the Chain of Rocks where records are maintained for the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers show total snowfall of eight inches between 8 a.m. Tuesday and 8 a.m. Wednesday, with lighter amounts before and after that period.

Temperatures reached a high of 30 degrees Wednesday, which is 20 degrees below normal for this time of the year.

January, February and March thus far have been the coldest on record for that three-month period with an average temperature of 22.8 degrees.

Snow has been on the ground for 60 consecutive days and an inch or more of snow has been on the ground for 54 consecutive days.

The snow which fell during the two days generally fell in a relatively narrow band along a line north of Springfield, Mo. to the Centralia, Ill. area. This area was on the western edge of the system.

Street Department workers in Granite City, Madison and Venice worked through the night Tuesday and early Wednesday morning to clear the streets, but snow plows had little effect in removing icy coatings on streets.

Ice-covered sidewalks made walking extremely hazardous and many persons suffered injuries in falls.

Although most accidents on the ice were minor "fender-benders," several persons suffered injuries, including Mrs. Sharon White, 26, of 2801 Palmer Ave., who was hurt Tuesday evening when her auto was struck from behind and she struck her head on the steering wheel. She was admitted to St. Elizabeth Hospital for observation.

Treated and released from the hospital after accidents Tuesday were Denise Sakas, 20, of 2341 Clark Ave., John Selmer, 16, of 14 William John Court, and Daniel Monroe Jr., 16, of 2304 Cardinal Ave.

Richard Lucido, 28, of 2332 Village Lane, escaped injury in an auto accident Wednesday evening, but when he got out of his car to examine the damage, he fell on ice and sprained his right wrist. He also was released after emergency room treatment.

As Tuesday morning's rain changed gradually to sleet and then to snow, Granite City police noted a rash of auto accidents.

Two accidents were reported at 2:40 p.m., and the largest number occurred between 3:30 and 3:53 p.m. with six accidents during that period.

Three teams of observers toured the hospital during the drill to evaluate the system.

Punney said. One team came from the nursing in-service department under the direction of Helen DeBorja.

Security Officer Kenneth Ashby was stationed on the hospital roof as a vantage point approach officer and Keith Pryor, management service director, also a speaker, was situated in the top fifth floor stairwell.

Security Officer Frank Bostich coordinated the switchboard to the nursing division.

Volunteers and patients being discharged were asked to remain inside the building while the exercise was over, about 15 minutes in all.

Punney said.

Another facet of the hospital test involved changing self-service elevators to manually operated with personnel from the business office assigned this task.

Drapes were closed over windows in the patients' rooms and these ambulances were escorted to inner corridors away from glass surfaces.

Curtains around the beds of those unable to be moved were drawn, also, to reduce the hazards of flying glass.

Due to the heavy snowfall Wednesday morning, the hospital staff was short-handed and those in the dietary department were dismissed from the drill after about five minutes to continue to prepare the patients' meals, Punney said.

School children in Granite City, Madison and Venice likewise were escorted by teachers into inner hallways or placed next to substantial walls away from windows.

At Harris School in Madison, the youngsters were seated on hallways and brought in to be moved from the west, face down, cupping their arms and heads behind the neck and head.

Similar instructions were given to children in other local schools.

Such drills allow the students to become familiar with procedures and bring to the attention of the public the real thing occur, a spokesman said.

vacated when the new station house at Johnson Road and Richmond Avenue was occupied a year ago. Since then the National Building has been used only for storage purposes.

Council members also referred to the finance committee and public committee a request by David Nolan, project coordinator of the city engineering department, that the alderman approve an additional $6,750 cost for construction of the new city jail and police station being built at 2240 Street and Madison Avenue.

Nolan explained that in preconstruction conferences with the contractor, M. H. Wille, involving a revision of the plans to cut out, plans were automatically eliminated for erection of a canopy.

In subsequent meetings it was agreed that the contractor to restore the canopy structure at a cost of $6,750, Nolan said.

Alderman Everett Morley, chairman of the Police Committee, said he believed the council should delay acting on the request until it can be determined if the additional money is available.

A request by Jay Dickerson and Charles Warren for authority to operate a new business, "Ye Old Pot Parlor" at 205 N. Main St., was referred by the council to Police Chief Ronald Veizer for investigation.

Dickerson and Warren told the council by letter that they plan to install five regulation pool tables, two soccer tables, a shuffle board and two coin-operated machines.

Nashville and Lebanon on collision course?

By PETER HAYES

Press-Record Sports Editor
CARBONDALE — It looks more and more as if it could be an all-Southern Illinois final to see who wears the 1877-78 Illinois Class A (750 enrollment or less) basketball crown.

Faced by Paul Patton's 21 points and John Jankowski's 20, the Nashville Hornets came back from an early 10-point deficit here Tuesday night to roll over Metropolis 67-55 in the Carbondale Class A Super Sectional. Nashville is the first Southern Illinois entry for the Assembly Hall activities this weekend.

But the other Southern Illinois entry won't be known until later today. The Charleston Super Sectional, which was to have been played between Lebanon and Effingham St. Anthony, was postponed Tuesday and Wednesday nights because of the snow. It was scheduled to be played this afternoon at 2 o'clock.

IF LEBANON, 72-70 conquerors of defending state champ Madison last week at Vandalia's Sectional, manage to get by St. Anthony, they'll play the first game tomorrow (Friday) in the quarterfinals at the Assembly Hall in Champaign.

That won't give the winner much rest. But that's the price one has to pay. The possibility of an all-south final exists because of Nashville and Lebanon (or even St. Anthony) being in opposite brackets. The only time the two could meet would be for the championship or for third place.

Nashville coach Bob Bogle said he'd welcome an all-south final. "I'd like that," he said. "But I'd just be happy to make the finals, no matter who we play. I'd be satisfied to play anybody."

Nashville will go into the upper bracket and will play Mason City in the final game of the quarterfinals tomorrow night at 8:30.

Mason City was a 60-36 winner over Hoopston-East Lynn Tuesday in the Normal Super Sectional. Lebanon or St. Anthony will face the winner of the East Moline Super Sectional tomorrow.

"IT WAS A SHAME one of us had to lose tonight," said Bogle. "I've always felt the toughest part of our chore would be getting out of the South. I may well be down to that in the final game. South against South."

Nashville heads into the trip to the Assembly Hall with the number-one ranking in the state in two wire service polls and a 27-3 record. One of those losses came in the Breese Mater Dei Christmas Tournament, 76-73 in overtime. The other two losses were to Paris (70-67) and to Mater Dei (67-45).

Bogle's Hornets have come a long way since that loss to Madison in December. But Bogle remembers that loss well. "Madison's ability to get inside on us on the offensive boards was something that I think might have helped us later on," he said. "I don't think that pressure really had a whole lot to do with our loss to them."

We've performed well under pressure all year, and we did it again against Metropolis. "The pressure at the SHL Arena in Carbondale is something like that at the Assembly Hall," he added. "But once you get this far, anything can happen."

Concerning Madison's overtime loss to Lebanon, Bogle said: "Madison's got a heck of a fine team. But at this stage of the game, nothing surprises me. I think that Lebanon caught just have the most talent in the state tournament," he said. "I'd rather not be number one," said Bogle. "Psychologically, we have everything in line."

Nashville has won 15 games in a row since losing to Paris in the first round of the Salem Invitational Tournament. Nashville's starters carry the bulk of their scoring load. The big men for the Hornets are 6-8 Ring Stieg, who chipped in 14 tallies against Metropolis, and Jankowski who stands 6-7. They have been nick-named the "Twin Giants" by their fans.

The Hornets' guards are Barry Murray and Mike Berwick. The sixth and seventh men are Richard Deering, Keith Macchioni and Randy Suggs.

Old Man Wuerfel has played havoc with post-season basketball throughout the state.

THE EAST ST. LOUIS CLASS A Sectional was postponed Tuesday night because of the weather. The game Tuesday was to have been between Belleville East and Edwardsville. The West Frankfort Sectional game between Benton and Olney set for yesterday was postponed until tonight because Olney's team couldn't make it out of town because of the snow but there hasn't been a flake of snow in West Frankfort in nearly a week. The entire area south of Lebanon and Salem has been hit with quite a bit of rain, but no snow.

Another interesting development occurred surrounding the East St. Louis Sectional. Collinsville's coach Verli Fletcher received three death threats after his Kahoks defeated East St. Louis in the Collinsville Regional finals.

It was decided by a toss of a coin that the game would be played in Alton last night. Belleville East and Edwardsville would still play in East St. Louis.

Granite City's Memorial Gym was at one time under consideration for the Collinsville-Alton game, but officials decided on the coin toss.

Last night, Collinsville demolished Alton 80-54 and Belleville East wiped out Edwardsville 68-47, setting up the sectional final tomorrow (Friday) night between the Hornets and the Kahoks which will be played in Alton.

The winner of that game will advance to the Carbondale Super Sectional at the SHL Arena and will play the winner from West Frankfort.

Collinsville officials asked that the Collinsville-Alton game be moved somewhere other than the East St. Louis gym.

BATTING the basketball away from two Roxana players Monday night in the East St. Louis Sub-Regional is North Steelerette Tracy McIntyre (44). The North-siders won and will play tonight for the right to compete in their own regional tournament next week, to be played in the Memorial Gymnasium.

North, South hold banquets

GRANITE CITY — Both Granite City North and South held their annual wrestling team awards banquet Tuesday night.

At Granite City North, all of the special awards, most falls, best state tournament performance and outstanding wrestler, went to Khris Whelan, the Lawrence

McCauley sophomore award went to Scott Polson, and the most falls, scholar-wrestler, senior wrestler and team captain honors went to Darrell Hasty, who recently finished third in the state finals.

Hasty shared the outstanding state performance award with junior teammate Sam Perkins, who finished second at the state finals.

Hasty was not able to be at the banquet, however, because he is in Jewish Hospital in St. Louis for a knee operation. He damaged the knee early in the season and re-damaged it at the state finals. His brother, Don Hasty, a former South wrestler, accepted Darrell's awards for him.

More honors . . . North's Khris Whelan named to All-U.S. wrestling team

GRANITE CITY — Granite City North's wrestler Khris Whelan received another honor yesterday when he was named to the All-U.S. wrestling team by the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette newspaper.

The team, which features only one wrestler in each weight class, will wrestle a team of Pennsylvania all stars on April 7 in Pittsburgh. Whelan and his coach, Walt Whitaker, will leave Granite City April 6.

Whelan was picked to wrestle at 112 pounds, but will be given a weight allowance, according to Whitaker. Whelan wrestled at 118 pounds during the regular season, in which he was undefeated. He switched to 112 pounds for the post-season tournaments, which saw him place second in the state, losing a controversial decision in the finals.

"Khris was picked to go last year," said Whitaker. "But he couldn't make the trip because he was only a junior. The Illinois High School Association has a rule against underclassmen participating in tournaments by Tom Becker of the Post-Gazette of his selection."

Khris went out to the Pittsburgh arena last year on a tour and wrestled and beat one of Pennsylvania's toughest wrestlers, added Whitaker. "I'm sure that was an influence on his selection."

Whelan, who won the state championship last year in the 108-pound class, was notified yesterday afternoon by Tom Becker of the Post-Gazette of his selection.

TONY REED AND HIS MACHINE

A family affair . . . That's it is when Tony Reed straps his helmet on

By FRED HAYES
Press-Record Sports Editor

When Tony Reed straps on his helmet and races in a motocross race, it becomes a family affair.

Tony, 15, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Reed of Madison and has been racing competitively since he was about 12.

"A couple of my friends, Dave Chouinard and Mike Champion, sort of got me interested," said Tony. "Ever since then, I've really been into it."

TRAP COULD be a candidate for the underestimation of the year. Tony seems to be just another boy on a motorcycle, according to his parents.

He's been almost off-circuit this winter, said his father. "We take him up to Belleville where there is an indoor dirt track and he can do some riding once every two weeks."

Tony has been cycling for about three and a half years and since he started, the sport has dominated his life.

"I used to practice on mini-bikes and when my folks have their garden," said Tony. "And sometimes we used to go up to the level and I'd ride there."

THE SNOW this winter has made it hard on Tony as far as riding is concerned. But with the trips to Belleville, he gets to get some of the enthusiasm out of his system.

Tony races at two tracks: provincially and also at other tracks in the area.

"I've raced at the CMC (Canadian Motorcycle Club) Association track in Ontarioville," said Tony. "And I raced at Cycle World U.S.A. in St. Peters, Mo. last year."

Tony placed third overall last season at Ontarioville's Motorcycle Valley Raceway in his cycle class. There are two things that make that an accomplishment outstanding.

First, his young age and second, the fact that he placed so high after missing the first three months of the season at Mississippi Valley.

TONY'S "TEACHERS" didn't do so badly, either. Chouinard, 20, took first place in the 250 cc. class at Mississippi Valley last season. Champion, also 20, placed second in the 250 cc. class.

"Tony's been riding more bikes since he was about 9 or 10," said his father. "But he moved up to the larger cycles about a year and a half ago and has done real well."

The weekend days when Tony rides at the tracks have become a major event at the Reed household. "We travel to the races in our car," said Mrs. Reed. "It's an old school bus that we converted. We just pack up the whole family and go."

MANY TIMES at the races, which run into fall weather, the Reed's camper had become a refuge for cold racers and fans.

"I remember one time I ended up feeling about 40 kids on one of these cold days," recalled Mrs. Reed.

The entire cast of outfitting a crew, including the motorcycle, riding suit, and all the trim can run in excess of $2,000 according to the Reeds.

But Tony's father said the most important thing about the racing is that it teaches youngsters how to set responsibility.

"It teaches respect for others," said the elder Mr. Reed. "That's a good kid, but there are other good kids out there racing. Now many times you'll see some racers helping somebody out who was in the mud or something."

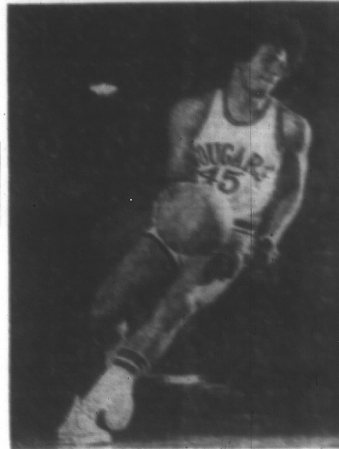

HOW DID Tony's mother react when she first learned of her son's plan to race motorcycles? "I was afraid he'd get hurt at first," she said. "I wouldn't go and watch him for a long time."

"But after quite a bit of everybody coming home after he'd raced and Tony saying, 'You should've seen me, mom. I started going and I just love it now.'"

Mrs. Reed said she felt that, in fact, motorcycle racing is safer than street cycling. "Everybody out there knows what he's doing," she said. "I'm more than I can say for a lot of these kids I see out on the roads."

When the 1978 racing season opens later this month, you can bet that Tony Reed and his whole family will be there somewhere.

A roamer . . . SIUE's Wardell Carter has finally found a home

WARDLE CARTER

By AL BARNES
Press-Record Sports Editor

Wardell Carter Jr., a frequent sight at the Southwestern Illinois University at Edwardsville basketball team in the last half of the last completed college season, finally found a home this year.

The 6-4, 180-pound junior out of St. Louis, Southern High, was first recruited to SIUE the first of the year at SIUE.

Carter's story is like that of hundreds of other outstanding basketball players in the nation who annually are flooded with many, many offers from colleges to play the basketball.

It's almost like Russian roulette without the death threat, of course, for the young player and his family to make up their minds where he should go.

After many visits to his and family homes, Carter decided on Phillips University at Elkhart, Ind., but he found that the coach's style of play didn't he thought, have a place for him.

So he transferred to Coach Norm Stewart's team at the University of Missouri, Columbia. There, it was a case of not showing and drawing off to college.

Turning of this, Carter, on the advice of many of his wrestling friends at Southern High, and some from St. Louis like Mike Taylor, Larry Pruitt and Kevin Smith, decided to enroll at SIUE, where he was again recruited.

"I'm happy I've come to SIUE," says Carter. "I got a chance to play, and with what we have coming back next year I think we'll have an outstanding season which will lead us to a post season tournament bid."

Says Dudley: "Three years in Oklahoma and at Missouri away from actual game participation, Wardell has been here at the end of the season he showed our faculty of competency that we definitely help on next season. He has tremendous ball control and court presence. He's a plus, that's for sure."

What advice would Carter give to the young high school senior basketball player who is faced the end of his prep career and the prospect of going off to college?

Without a second's hesitation, he answered: "I'd tell them to be sure they have a first agreement on room and board, books and fees and lastly, his chances of playing time."

A cool, calm young man now, Carter says of his future: "I want to get into labor relations at the Chrysler plant at Fenton. I've worked there, and I feel that I have a talent for that type of work."

But as a sure sign that basketball is still important in his thinking, he answered a question on the best high school prospect in the St. Louis metropolitan area by answering: "Dave Thirkield of Sevier."

IHSA makes rules changes

BLOOMINGTON — The Illinois High School Association (IHSA), at a recent meeting of its board of directors, made several rules changes in several IHSA sanctioned sports. Among them were boys' football and golf. The changes are:

BOYS' GOLF
The day designated for sectional tournament competition has been moved forward one day to Monday preceding the state final tournament beginning with the 1978-79 (next school) year. The standard dates for competition in the series become Thursday for Districts, Monday for Sectionals and the Friday-Saturday for the state final. Dates for the 1978 series will be: Sectionals on Monday, Oct. 16 and the State Final on Friday-Saturday, Oct. 20-21.

Couthing of players will be allowed only between the end of nine holes of competition and prior to the start of the next nine holes throughout the series. Players shall not have contact with their coaches.

BOYS' FOOTBALL
Changes approved for the Football Playoff Series are designed to clarify the procedures used in determining "At Large" qualifiers and designation by conference of their champion in the event of a co-championship.

Each conference must have on file in writing in the IHSA Office by the last day of September its criteria for the selection of the conference representative when a co-championship exists. Such criteria must be based upon an objective system, and not a subjective vote. Failure on the part of a conference to have such a criteria on file by the deadline date will forfeit that conference's berth in the series.

To be considered eligible to participate in the series, each school must play a minimum of eight contracted varsity games by the conclusion of the ninth week of the season, and at least one of these games must be against an Illinois school. Any exception to this requirement must be approved by the IHSA board of directors prior to the third week of the season, along the following guidelines:

Should a school contract for a "varsity" game against a non-Illinois school, such a game must be approved by the IHSA board of directors prior to the third week of the season, along the following guidelines:

Should a school contract for a "varsity" game against a non-Illinois school, such a game must be approved by the IHSA board of directors prior to the third week of the season, along the following guidelines:

Class 3A
Preliminary Round games shall start between 1:30 and 7:00 p.m. The starting time shall be determined by the host school.

In the selection of "At Large" qualifiers, in the event schools tie for points under the traditional procedure, a revised system for breaking the point total be based upon the level of competition will be implemented. Schools will not be in jeopardy of selection by playing within their own class or above. The system will be:

One class up or down: For a win over a team in one class lower, subtract one point.

Two classes up or down: For a win over a team in two classes higher, add four points; for a win over a team in the same class, add or subtract no points.

For a win over a team in one class lower, add two points. For a loss to a team in one class lower, subtract two points.

For a win over a team in two classes higher, add five points. For a loss to a team in two classes higher, subtract five points.

For a win over a team in the same class, add or subtract no points. For a loss to a team in the same class, subtract no points.

For a win over a team in one class lower, add two points. For a loss to a team in one class lower, subtract two points.

For a win over a team in two classes higher, add five points. For a loss to a team in two classes higher, subtract five points.

For a win over a team in the same class, add or subtract no points. For a loss to a team in the same class, subtract no points.

For a win over a team in one class lower, add two points. For a loss to a team in one class lower, subtract two points.

For a win over a team in two classes higher, add five points. For a loss to a team in two classes higher, subtract five points.

For a win over a team in the same class, add or subtract no points. For a loss to a team in the same class, subtract no points.

Under the traditional point system, a school earns 20 points for a win over a team with a final winning record, 10 points for a win over a team with a final record of .500, and eight points for a win over a team with a losing record. And a team with a final winning record, four points for a loss to a team with a .500 record and two points for a loss to a team with a losing record.

A revision of the financial structure stipulates each game in the Preliminary, Quarterfinal and Semifinal rounds will be independent of each other. In addition, visiting schools will be reimbursed for a deficit in travel expenses only if a school's financial statement and percentage of game receipts for its complete participation in the tournament does not show travel expenses approved by the Board of Directors. Such reimbursement will be up to $100 per player, coaches, managers and trainers.

A total of 107 schools entered teams in last fall's series.

Peebles sets six records

West Point, the only 1-0 team in the 1977-78 season, set six records in the 1977-78 season. The records were set by Peebles, who was named MVP of the season.

Peebles' 217 free throws made in three years were a new record, as were his 1,000 points scored.

Percentage-wise, Peebles tied with senior Vince Barnett of Danville for the number of points scored in three years. Peebles has participated in 75 games, and Barnett has played in 74.

Barnett and Bill Brown, sophomore forward from Oak Hills, finished in second a tie for the team's best field goal shooting average for the season, a phenomenal 87.5 percentage. Barnett scored 1,000 points, while Brown scored 900.

Barnett made his first grade appearance, while Brown played in 88 at 120 minutes.

Leon Wright's old SIUE rebounding record was taken over by Barnett, whose four-year total was 166 caroms. Now in second place is Jim Allen, junior from Merriamville, with 100 rebounds.

An ability about SIUE basketball was found and named by Larry Hubbard, former Cougar student statistician. Every year under Jim Dudley, if the Cougars win their first game, they'll have their final contest of the year and if they lose their opener, they'll win their finale.

Dudley's tenure at SIUE have posted four winning records and four losing seasons.

They now live on at SIUE. Overalls as a college coach, he's 174-121.

Jones receives all-Midwest honorable mention selection

Don Jones, a former basketball player for Madison High School, one at Illinois State, has received all-Midwest honorable mention in the 1977-78 season. Jones was the second leading scorer on Illinois State University's basketball team last season at Normal, Bloomington.

Jones, the second highest scorer at SIUE, was named to the magazine's all-Midwest second team.

TWO STATE FINALISTS. Granite City North and South had their wrestling banquet Tuesday night and each school awarded special honors to its state finalist. At left, South's Sam Perkins, who finished second in the state meet at 138 pounds, gets his award from Coach Bill Schmitt (right). At right, North's Chris Whelan, the 90-pound 1977 state champion, who closed out a spectacular high school career by placing second in the 112-pound class, presents his coach, Walt Whelan, a travel bag on behalf of all the senior South wrestlers.

Aiassi elected by Phi Delta Kappa

Eugene L. Aiassi, Granite City school district consultant on art education, was elected during the weekend as secretary of Phi Delta Kappa, Gateway East Chapter, for the 1978-79 year. The position is an automatic step to president-elect and then to president.

He is chairman of the Education Committee of the Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce.

Phi Delta, an international, professional fraternity for individuals in education, aims at promotion and improvement of free public education through continuing interpretation of the ideals of research, service and leadership.

The goals are pursued through active programs sponsored by every chapter, plus an expanding program at the national and international level.

Phi Delta Kappans initiate individuals who have "already proved themselves." They hold key positions at every educational level and in every discipline.

Seventy-one percent of all superintendents and principals in public schools of America are Phi Delta Kappans, and 67 percent of deans of schools of education and administrative heads of teacher preparatory institutions are members.

At the Phi Delta Kappa biennial council, four commissions were authorized on education, manpower and economic growth, on higher education, on international relations in education, and on strengthening the teaching profession.

The March meeting was held at the Round Table Restaurant.

Vincent not interviewed by trades council

Michael Vincent, a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Madison County sheriff, said Tuesday that because he was not officially invited to be interviewed by the Tri-City Trades and Labor Council, he did not appear.

A news release from the council, announcing its endorsement of Emil Toffani for sheriff, erroneously listed Vincent among those who were interviewed, Vincent said.

"We heard through the grapevine it would be a waste of time to appear. We felt they had already made up their minds to go for Toffani, and they did go for him. We felt our time was better spent with other groups of voters," Vincent contended. He said he welcomed labor support and did appear before the Committee on Political Education (COPE) of the AFL-CIO when he was officially invited. That group didn't endorse him, either, however.

Clean Air Board to meet tonight

The Granite City Air Pollution Control Board will meet at 7:30 p.m. today in the board offices, 2801 Adams St. to hear monthly reports on surveillance activities and ambient air sampling.

Also on the agenda will be a monthly activity summary by Jim Henry, pollution control engineer and a discussion on the status of federal grant applications.

A discussion with Dr. Robert Arnold of the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency also is scheduled during the meeting.

Breast self examination

By CATHERINE R. MAUCK
Madison County Extension
Advisor, Home Economics

Breast cancer is the leading form of cancer and the most common cause of cancer deaths among American women.

This year, approximately 30,000 new cases of the disease will be discovered and breast cancer will claim an estimated 23,000 lives. But these grim figures don't tell the entire story.

Many breast cancer victims are alive and comforted cured, because of early detection and prompt treatment.

In fact, cancer is found early when it is localized in the breast, nearly 85 percent of the treated patients show no evidence of the disease at the end of five years.

While all women face the threat of breast cancer, the risk is greater for some. Women with a family history of the disease or previous breast cancer experience and those over 30 years of age have a higher incidence of the disease than does the overall female population.

Even though breast cancer can exist and pass unnoticed in its early stages, regular breast self-examination is recommended to detect breast abnormalities.

Lumps, dimples and unusual discharge from the nipples are sometimes noticed during this quick and simple examination.

Most irregularities found during a self-examination turn out to be non-cancerous. However, all unusual findings should be referred immediately to a physician for further evaluation.

If you are not familiar with the self-examination procedure, visit or call your local office of the American Cancer Society, 301 Henry St., Alton. They will provide materials on breast self-examination.

Heart care instruction

An advanced course in "Cardiac Management of Cardiac Care" will be offered at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville beginning March 22. Sessions will meet March 22, April 1, 10, 17 and 24 and May 1, 8 and 22 in the Ohio Room of the University Center from 1 until 4 p.m.

Sponsored by the Continuing Education Program of the S.I.U. School of Nursing, 682-3506, the course is designed for professional nurses now providing patient care in an acute care setting. The course will be of value to those interested in developing further knowledge and skill in cardiac care. Betty Boyd Walker, director of the program, said:

"Basic knowledge of cardiac nursing, including electrocardiography, is required. Nurses enrolled in the course will be expected to participate in guided independent study. Mrs. Walker said:

"Upon completion, students will be able to critically discuss the importance of cardio-respiratory assessment in the care of the heart patient, and explain the need for accuracy in all aspects of sphygmomanometry and pulse monitoring."

Registration is $36. Enrollment will be limited to 30. Deadline for registration is March 20. Applicants will be accepted on a first-come, first-served basis.

Instructor will be Dorothy Strainman-Lacey, cardio-vascular clinical specialist and director of intensive education at Centerville Township Hospital.

Larry J. Anderson, 28, of 6118 rear Delmar Ave., has been sentenced by Circuit Judge Joseph J. Barr to serve two years of probation after pleading guilty to burglary on a Sept. 10, 1977, case.

Waffle Time

Waffle time is any time, but cooks often think of them in terms of breakfast only.
Waffles are suitable for every meal, team up well with many kinds of foods.
Experiment with different batters. A basic batter is ideal for main dishes, such as waffles with creamed ham or chicken. A richer, deluxe batter is tasty alone or served with fruit sauces. And a sweet batter is perfect for dessert use. In all cases, remember to keep the batter thin rather than thick. If adding mashed shortening, let it cool slightly first.

$2 billion for needy in state

Governor James R. Thompson's July 1978-June 1979 Public Aid Budget provides $2.1 billion for needy Illinois residents to help maintain their basic health and financial needs.

In order to achieve this goal, Thompson told the General Assembly, he has set the following priorities for the department:

1. Reduction of fraud and
2. Increased job placement assistance for recipients.
3. Strict enforcement of child support obligations.
4. A five percent cost-of-living increase for recipients.
5. Rate increases for certain medical providers.

The department will distribute about $881.8 million in income assistance to 880,000 persons during fiscal year '79. A five percent cost-of-living increase will cost the state $2.7 million. This will raise the average monthly cash award from $20 to $20.90 per eligible family member — 10 percent above the national average for the AFDC program assistance to families with dependent children.

There are about 720,000 persons in Illinois receiving AFDC payments, a decline from 774,000 one year ago. This represents the largest sustained decline in the rolls in the program's history, the governor said.

A major Thompson priority is reduction of fraud and abuse in the Medicaid program. An increase in spending for the Bureau of Program Integrity — and transfer of criminal fraud investigations from Public Aid to the Department of Law Enforcement — are seen as aiding this effort.

In FY '79, the department will spend $20.4 million for social services, employing job placement.

This is an increase of 4.6 percent over estimated FY '78 (July 1977-June 1978) expenditures. Administrative costs for the department will be $100 million of the projected budget. Expenses of the staff training program will be emphasized in FY '79 aid in removing recipients from the program.

Meanwhile, Gov. Thompson proposed a major increase in funding for services to children and their families in his FY '79 budget for the Department of Children and Family Services. Major initiatives of the $14.5 million budget include:

- A 22 percent increase for counseling, advocacy, and homemaker services.
- Greater utilization of private child care agencies.
- Rate increases for foster care, private agencies and providers of institutional and group home care.

Thompson said a funding increase for home services to $18.7 million will be used to provide more counseling, advocacy and homemaker services.

These services can help families at the first sign of trouble, Thompson said.

"They are vital in the department's efforts to prevent child abuse and avoid unnecessary placement of children outside the home," Thompson said.

He indicated the department intends to refer 1,000 additional foster family care cases to private agencies by June 30, 1979.

His intention is to improve in-home counseling and rely less on institutional care, Thompson said.

Private care agencies, many of which have a religious affiliation, can do the job and do it better than the state.

This will also allow the redeployment of 28 foster care staff members in critical child abuse prevention services.

An increase for providers of institutional and group home care is also called for in the new appropriation.

Document names Venice man

Larry E. Severs, 22, of 830 Fourth St., Venice, has been named in an informational document from the Madison County state's attorney's office alleging a felony count of possession of marijuana.

Severs' name was arrested Dec. 28, 1977, by Granite City police who stopped his auto and alleged finding a container of what appeared to be marijuana in his car.

He was released pending laboratory study of the substance. Laboratory reports confirmed the substance tested was 43.2 grams of marijuana and a warrant was issued for Severs' arrest.

Venue police arrested him at 1:30 p.m. Friday and he was released at 1:30 p.m. Friday after posting $204 cash bond.

you can BANK on it!

BY GRANITE CITY TRUST AND SAVINGS

Two major reasons banks exist are to protect your money and to lend money. This pertains to the latter reason.

Having the information necessary for a loan is relatively simple if you will prepare three things: a general financial statement, a projection, and a personal financial statement.

The general financial statement applies to a business or a specific project and includes a balance sheet and an income and expense statement.

The projection is usually an estimate of future income and expenses. It also shows the banker that you have goals and vision and a way of putting dreams into reality.

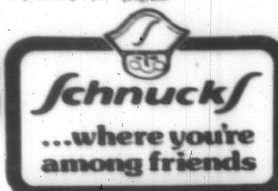

The third is the personal financial statement, a useful tool because it provides the banker with the information he's looking for to make his judgment upon.

For personal loans on cars, refrigerators and the like, the personal financial statement would certainly help speed the paper work.

If you need help making one up, come by. Any of our loan people at Granite City Trust will be happy to serve you.

Funds short to maintain Interstate roads in area

By CAROL CARSTENS

Press-Record

Springfield Bureau

Many of Illinois' interstate highways are past their youthful beauty and need a face lift. Illinois has 1,600 miles of interstate, some of it built nearly 20 years ago.

Department of Transportation officials expect around 200 miles of interstate to require resurfacing over the next five years at an estimated cost of $250 million.

Federal funding is not available for most of it, according to Gene McCormick, chief of program planning for DOT.

"What it amounts to is that we have more roads to improve than we have money," said McCormick.

Gov. James Thompson and John Krumer, DOT secretary, have received approval to use federal funds earmarked for construction for the biggest of the interstate rehabilitation projects, Chicago's Eden Expressway, which will relieve some of the economic burden.

Reconstruction of the Eden Expressway, a $50 million project, will begin this year.

Interstate construction funds will be spent on the project, meaning the state will have to spend only $10 for every $90 of federal money spent.

However, for the other projects, little federal funding is available so far, McCormick said.

Presently, the federal government provides only $6.5 million a year for Illinois' rehabilitation projects, a total of $30 million over the next five years.

On the other hand, federal funding for interstate construction totals $120 million a year.

Downstate interstates needing resurfacing include I-55 from U.S. 36 on the north to Sixth Street in Springfield.

The older segments of I-57 on the east side of the state and I-50, the east-west interstate across north-central Illinois, also need resurfacing, according to McCormick.

Sections of I-74 between Champaign-Urbana and Danville also need rehabilitation.

I-270 near Granite City has sections that need improvement.

However, McCormick believes the interstates still are safe to travel.

"They are far from desirable."

Hurt on E. 20th

Duane Smith, 30, of 2017 Myrtle Ave., was injured when his car and the auto of Louis Kalela, 2827 Pershing Blvd., collided on ice in the 1300 block of E. 20th Street at 3:15 p.m. Thursday.

Smith was taken by Granite City ambulance to St. Elizabeth Hospital, where he was examined and X-rayed for pain to his neck and back. A possible neck strain was diagnosed and he was released.

Charge dismissed

A rape charge against Daniel Lee Wright, 43, St. Louis, has been dismissed in Madison County Circuit Court at Edwardsville.

Wright had been charged with bringing a 36-year-old woman to an old boat ramp on the Mississippi riverfront in Madison, where she alleged she was raped Aug. 28, 1977.

GRANITE CITY PRESS-RECORD Thurs. March 9, 1978 Page 20

The I-270 segment 4 would require the expenditure of $5.5 million.

Those three projects alone would exceed the federal funds available this year for interstate rehabilitation, totaling $10.5 million.

If additional federal funds earmarked for rehabilitation do not become available, state officials will have to consider spending federal highway assistance funds.

But that would require the expenditure of 10 state dollars for every $10 of federal money allocated to a project.

On $10.5 million of interstate projects, that would mean the expenditure of $10.5 million.

If the state could use federal 80 to matching funds for these projects, it would have to spend only $1.1 million of its own money.

Let of general federal highway assistance funds also would reduce the money available for new construction.

The interstates are used more than other highways, according to McCormick.

Approximately 20 percent of all vehicular traffic occurs on just one percent of the highways, he reported.

Heavy truck traffic also adds to the grinding the interstates receive.

Since 1955, federal officials paid little attention to repair and rehabilitation of the interstate system, according to McCormick. In 1976, federal funds were first allocated to rehabilitation, and $6.5 million became available annually.

All of the costs of routine maintenance on interstates are paid by the state.

All of the heavy cut into the interstates this year will be filled at state expense, as will all state national, drinking and potholes. Such routine maintenance costs $20 million a year.

Illinois' interstate system is nearly completed. A total of 1,770 miles of four-lane highway has been approved for federal authorization for Illinois.

Most of the 120 miles still to be completed will be constructed under contract by road time.

McCormick expects that only 10 miles of interstate will still be in the planning stage in 1980 and not yet scheduled for construction.

Police await lab tests

Granite City police detectives say they are waiting for results of laboratory reports on 47 pills they believe to be LSD before the Madison County state's attorney's office will authorize felony charges against the 19-year-old youth from whom the pills were seized Feb. 26.

The Granite City youth was among three youths arrested by police after officers alleged seeing them passing around in a car what appeared to be a marijuana cigarette.

One of the youths was charged with possession of cannabis and another was charged with possessing an altered driver's license. Police alleged finding the 47 pills in the third youth's possession, which preliminary tests indicated was LSD, or a similar substance.

The Madison County state's attorney's office, however, refused to authorize a felony charge of unlawful possession of a controlled substance against the youth until official laboratory tests confirm the substance is one of the drugs outlawed by the state's controlled substance act.

The drug were sent to the state's crime laboratory at Fairview Heights, but that laboratory currently is without a criminal chemist and had to be sent to another state lab, authorities said. They noted it has taken three weeks to get results of laboratory chemical tests.

"We have been assured that when the laboratory results are available and show the drug is a controlled substance, the state's attorney will authorize a felony warrant against the youth," a detective said.

For about a year, the state's attorney's office has utilized a warrant office for the filing of felony charges through international documents. They have been some objections to police, and articles in the news media about the concept, which does not allow police department to file felony charges without, in most cases, driving to Edwardsville and proving their case to an assistant state's attorney before charges can be filed.

Several Granite City residents have objected to the delay in filing charges in this case, since two of the youths arrested have been charged and their names have appeared in this newspaper, and the third youth has not yet been charged or publicly named.

They also are asking why the youth has been released on a $200 bond to Circuit Judge William Beatty, if he is not charged.

Beatty telephoned police the night of the arrest and was told the youth had just gotten out of the hospital and was in handcuffs and asked if he could be released from jail.

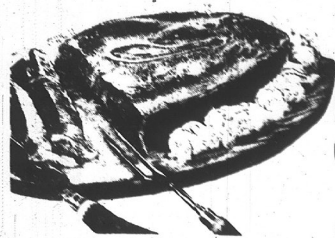

Beatty said he called the police station, confirmed the youth's physical condition and ordered him released. "I understood he had been charged with the marijuana or the drugs. I told him he had been charged, so I set a bond. When I found out he had not been charged, I started asking why he was far as I can tell, everything is on the up and up."

Beatty concluded.

New law on boating available

The Illinois Department of Conservation has issued a reminder that the state's boating law was revised late last summer and that a number of new regulations for boaters will be in effect this year.

Under the amended act, children under 10 may not operate a motor-powered boat of any kind regardless of how low the horsepower.

For a copy of the revised boating law, which deals almost entirely with non-adult boaters, Quad-Cityans may write to the DCC Law Enforcement Division, 100 E. Washington, Springfield, IL 62766.

The department also is reminding boat owners to renew their boat registration. Registrations for about half the boats in the state expire on June 30.

Rev. Arentsen sentencing set here Friday

Sentencing is set for 3 p.m. Friday in the Granite City Hall for the Rev. Edwin Arentsen, the anti-abortion priest who was found guilty of disorderly conduct Feb. 16.

Rev. Arentsen was arrested Jan. 19 during a disturbance at the Hope Clinic, 88 miles and the adjoining offices of Dr. Victor Zevulun at 21st and Iowa streets.

He was tried before a jury of seven women and five men in Granite City, who deliberated about 10 minutes before finding him guilty of disorderly conduct.

Associate Judge Thomas Gibbons, who presided at the trial, will pronounce sentence, maximum sentence would be 30 days in the Madison County Jail and a $500 fine.

Car hits garage

Arthur P. Jeandane, 45, of 2501 Alexander Ave., was charged with driving while intoxicated after his pickup truck struck the garage of Bill Hoppe, 2313 Edwardsville Road, at 8:05 p.m. Sunday.

Police noted the driveway of the Jeandane home and Hoppe's garage face each other across an alley. Jeandane said he backed his truck into his driveway and got out, leaving the engine running.

The truck, which may have been left in gear, traveled across the alley about 25 feet and struck Hoppe's garage, damaging the garage door.

Woman sentenced

Mrs. Sandra Waldron, 23, of Pontoon Beach, was sentenced to Circuit Judge Harold R. Clark to serve six months in the Madison County Jail and two years of probation after pleading guilty to unlawful possession of cannabis.

Pontoon Beach police and members of the Metropolitan Enforcement Group of Southwestern Illinois (MEGI) arrested her and her husband on Eastgate Drive in Pontoon Beach and served search warrants on them in August, allegedly finding marijuana.

MADISON WOMAN HURT

Mrs. Julia Gockan, 58, of 1015 Greenwood St., Madison, bumped her head during an auto accident last week and went to St. Elizabeth's Hospital for X-rays. She was released.

Jane Fonda returning here

Actress Jane Fonda will speak April 11 at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

Her presentation, entitled "Jane Fonda: The Evolution of a Woman," will begin at 8:15 p.m. in Meridian Hall of the University Center.

The presentation is being made in conjunction with Women's Week at SIUE (April 10-14). Women's Week is being sponsored by the Women for Women organization on campus.

Daughter of actor Henry Fonda, she was proclaimed a rebel during the early 1970s as a result of marching in protests and starting in rallies against the U.S. war effort in Vietnam. Among the places where she denounced the U.S. and praised Vietnamese Communists was an SIUE talk.

JANE FONDA

Last year, Jane Fonda campaigned for her husband, Tom Hayden, who was running for the Democratic U.S.

senatorial nomination in California. His campaign was unsuccessful, but she and her husband have remained politically active.

They are presently promoting their "campaign for economic democracy" urging "more public control of corporations" and an end to tax loopholes.

Miss Fonda has starred on Broadway, in television and in motion pictures. Some of her films include Cat Ballou, Barefoot in the Park, Fun With Dick and Jane and her most recent success, Julia, for which she has received an Academy Award nomination for "best actress of the year."

Tickets will go on sale March 27. They will be available in the University Center ticket office at $2 for SIUE students and $4 for non-students.

Higher education board okays raises

The Illinois Board of Higher Education (IBHE) approved Tuesday a plan for allocation of Gov. James E. Thompson's budget for the 1978-79 fiscal year which preserves the salary increases recommended by the IBHE in January.

The IBHE staff said a six percent general salary increase is provided to offset the impact of inflation projected for next year.

A special two percent salary increase for a total of eight percent, is allocated for public university employees "in order to restore the competitiveness of public university salaries in terms of the salaries paid by peer institutions."

Additional funds are allocated in order to support a total salary increase of 10 percent for lower-paid nonacademic employees in public universities.

This allocation is made to reduce the gap between the wages of civil service employees in universities and other areas of state government. These salaries will help address deficiencies that have developed over several years, according to the IBHE staff statement.

The allocation plan includes funds for an increase of 16 percent in utility costs at campuses heavily dependent on natural gas, and 11½ percent for campuses that predominantly use other fuels.

A 10 percent increase for library materials was allocated, along with a general price increase for other goods and services of four and a half percent.

The level of program support was reduced in the allocation plan from $6 million to $5.2 million.

At Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, a total of $38,200 was allocated for additional program support, including $65,300 for the School of Nursing, $15,000 for the bachelor of science in engineering degree program, $20,000 for the East St. Louis center and $30,500 for the School of Dental Medicine.

SUIU's total budget under the allocation plan is $26,318,000, compared with the IBHE recommendation of $26,472,500 and the university's original request of $26,507,000.

The 1977-78 appropriation for SUIU was $25,167,786.

Youth charged

Granite City police were called at 1:35 p.m. Tuesday to a fight in the 2400 block of Washington Avenue, which some observers said was involving weapons.

Police questioned several persons in the area and searched one car, finding a nightstick under the front seat. The owner of the car allegedly demanded that officers return his nightstick and was belligerent when police refused, officers reported.

They also alleged the man refused orders to leave the area. Jerry T. Aubusson, 18, of 2234 Washington Ave., was charged with disorderly conduct and was released after posting $50 bond at 2:20 p.m. Tuesday.

CLEVELAND BURGLARY

About 15 cans of food are the only things known missing after a burglary at the apartment of Christine Miller, 1706 S. Cleveland Blvd., between 8 and 7:30 p.m. Monday. Glass in a north door was broken to gain entry.

ALARM IS ACTIVATED. sounding tornado sirens throughout Granite City at 10:15 a.m. Wednesday. Police Lieutenant Albert Diak pushes a button starting conducted by the National Weather Service in cooperation with the Illinois Emergency Services and Disaster Agency. Also participating were area schools and many industries.

More ambulance data is sought in Chouteau

The Chouteau Town Board of Trustees Monday evening decided to seek additional information before agreeing to sign a contract with Granite City for continued ambulance service to the township after Wednesday, March 15.

During a special meeting which followed a revenue sharing public hearing Monday night, the board discussed several questions about the proposed contract.

The city wants every village, city and township served by the city ambulance service to assure Granite City full payment for ambulance service to the residents living outside of Granite City.

The crisis began when Granite City Attorney Lance Callis noted federal and state grants paying the salaries of ambulance personnel expire March 15, and the taxpayers will have to pay their salaries.

Callis said it would be unlawful for the taxpayers of Granite City to subsidize ambulance calls which lose money and the Granite City Council's traffic committee decided that areas outside of the city will have to assure full payment for all ambulance runs if the ambulance is to serve those areas.

after March 15.

A contract was drawn by Callis and presented to Chouteau, Nanticoke and Venice townships, Madison and Venice and Pottsville for signing. If they wanted to continue to be served by city ambulances after March 15.

Chouteau trustees noted the proposed contract does not specify who is liable for injuries suffered in an ambulance accident in the township, or who will have to pay the higher insurance premium for ambulances which cover the entire Quad-City area, rather than just the city.

It also fails to specify whether the township will be responsible for the "automatic loss" but even what the public aid pays for ambulance service to its patients and the city's actual cost for such runs, the trustees said.

They also were undecided what fund should be used to pay the city for unpaid ambulance runs, agreeing the taxpayers of Chouteau Township should not be responsible for paying other people's bills. Preliminary indications were that money should be budgeted in the new revenue sharing budget which is now being prepared, but the trustees agreed they do not know how much should be budgeted.

The board requested Supervisor Walter "Dick" Sparks and Town Clerk Patricia Polley to relay the questions to the township's attorney and insurance carrier for recommendations before a final contract is signed.

The board also agreed to advertise for bids for kitchen cabinets in the new community center. Cabinets were budgeted in the previous fiscal year, so funds are available. It was noted.

During the public hearing on proposed uses for revenue sharing funds, no township residents expressed their views on how the money should be spent. About $30,000 in revenue sharing funds are expected to be received by Chouteau Township during the fiscal year.

Representatives of the South Rensselaire Fire Department told the board that their department needs two-way radio equipment and has none. Representatives of the Mitchell Fire Department also were on hand and said they are considering any needs their department may have.

The trustees asked the fire department representatives to put each department's requests and the approximate amount needed in writing and submit the requests to the board.

The trustees also agreed that revenue sharing funds should be earmarked for upkeep and maintenance in the new town hall and community center building.

While more and more people are joining the center for gathering, helping offset some of the upkeep costs, the township still is paying about $400 per month in utilities, maintenance and other costs on the building, which was constructed with revenue sharing funds. It was noted.

The trustees will now begin preparing the new revenue sharing budget. It was expected at the hearing.

The Elite Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association, Affiliate 33, will sponsor a Shape-A-Thon "Sunday to raise money to help Earl "Fuzzy" Jarrett in his fight against cancer, Judy Broshaw, affiliate president, said today.

Proceeds from the benefit will aid Jarrett to receive cancer medical treatment. Mrs. Broshaw explained, in urging the public to participate.

The "Shape-A-Thon" will take place from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. Sunday at the New Breed Salon, 2401 Jerden Ave.

All local hairdressers are being encouraged to volunteer their services to the benefit event and are invited to call Julie Ahern, at 878-5432, or Mrs. Broshaw, at 876-8338, for further details.

"Earl is a lifelong resident of Granite City and a charter member of the Elite Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association," Mrs. Broshaw said.

"He has always been a great asset to our organization and has been in the beauty business for the past 20 years."

Jarrett, a former alderman of the Second Ward in Granite City, has been active in many community events.

Men, women and children may receive a hair shaping for a $5 charge and blow dry styling for $2. Mrs. Broshaw said, adding that "everyone is welcome to come in Sunday."

She said persons not requiring a hair shaping may stop by the salon and leave a donation. "All will be appreciated," the affiliate officer emphasized.

Although an appointment is not necessary to take part in the "Shape-A-Thon," Mrs. Broshaw said, "We would appreciate persons wishing to come in at a specific time calling 878-5432 today or Friday for a reservation."

"We will have several hair stylists in the salon at all times on Sunday," she advised.

In a later announcement, the association officers said a special fund in the name of Earl "Fuzzy" Jarrett has been established at Granite City Trust and Savings Bank, 19th Edition Ave., where donations may be sent directly.

Week to honor Illinois nurses

Illinois Nurses' Week, March 12-18, has been officially proclaimed by Mayor Paul Schuler of Granite City.

The observance has been declared throughout the state in order to honor nurses for their "year-round dedication to quality health care" and to bring public attention to the nursing profession's current achievements and future goals.

The mayor's proclamation was the first of a series of events planned in this region for the celebration. Local-level sponsor of the 18th annual Illinois Nurses' Week is Illinois Nurses Association District 10, whose president is Mary Leno, a member of the nursing faculty at Belleville Area College.

Additional activities scheduled for Nurses' Week will focus on the 1978 theme, "Nurses—qualified to care."

Development funds to go to overpass

Granite City officials are proposing utilizing $285,000 in community development grant funds for repairing a sewer and for the 19th Street railroad overpass, rather than using the entire amount for sewer repairs, a plan the Department of Housing and Urban Development has rejected.

HUD noted its guidelines require the money to aid primarily low-income families and ruled a larger sewer repair program would not qualify.

The city then proposed using $100,000 to repair a sewer break in the East Granite City area and using the $185,000 to help finance the local share of the overpass construction cost, which will aid traffic flow for West Granite City residents.

A public hearing on the new proposal is scheduled for 2 p.m. Thursday, March 16, on the third floor of the Granite City Hall.

Partney endorsed

Daniel Partney spoke and answered questions at a meeting of United Automobile Workers Local 1715 on Feb. 18, reviewing his first term of office, and was endorsed unanimously for re-election to the Madison County Board.

"Our union endorsement was based on his accomplishment while serving in office, his honesty, and his willingness to work hard in the best interest of the people. We are asking voters of District 21 to vote March 21 to return Dan Partney to the County Board," President Willard Herzing and Educational-Political Director Mike Lesko said.

Different approaches by Demo candidates

By GARY SCHNEIDER

Press-Record Staff Writer
Fifteen Democratic candidates running for state senator, representative, Circuit Court Judge or County Board member appeared before the Granite City Democratic Club Wednesday evening at the Knights of Columbus Hall to outline their qualifications and platforms.

One of the surprises of the night was a speech by incumbent State Representative Joe Lucio of Edwardsville, who heatedly accused some in the audience of spreading lies about him.

He named one Democrat in the audience whom he said was telling persons Lucio was encouraging people to "single shoot," or cast all three of their state representative votes, for Lucio.

"I have never asked anyone to single-shoot for me and anyone who said I did is a damned liar," Lucio stated.

He also said he has been endorsed by organized labor, but does not feel he is getting full support from the unions. "I supported labor right down the line and I expect their support. Don't promise support and sell me down the river. I don't come very damn cheap," Lucio concluded.

The other incumbent state representative, Jim McKee of Alton, took a cooler approach, saying he has "tried to take a common sense approach to politics." He said he quit his job to become a full-time representative, even though he makes less money.

Former State Representative Sam Wolf of Granite City admitted he is openly asking voters to cast all three of their representative votes for him. To win, it has to go that way. Last time (1975), I ran on a team and we split the votes on a party line. I ran third. I want to win because I want to be your representative," Wolf said.

Opposing candidates in other races attempted to avoid such controversy. The three candidates for state senator reviewed their qualifications and their hopes for the future.

Steve Maragolis of Granite City said he hopes to expand the Illinois Industrial Commission, fight rising medical costs and fight rising medical costs and fight rising medical costs.

Dan O'Neill of Alton said he would like to put a lid on campaign spending, support stronger financial disclosure laws, improve care for the elderly and see that downstate Illinois receives a larger share of the service the taxpayers are paying for.

Incumbent Senator Sam Vadala of Edwardsville reviewed his achievements in the senate and promised he could continue to fight for this area. He said he was proud of $100 million in road improvements here, over $100 million to help SUE grow, and his record of support for labor.

"I don't know how I could work any harder," Vadala said. Circuit Judge candidate William "Bill" Johnson requested support from the Democrats present, noting he served as a judge more than 12 years and earned the respect of the police and fellow judges, "as a law and order judge. That's been my record."

He contended crime has dropped in every area he served on the bench, including Granite City, Alton, Wood River and Edwardsville.

Incumbent Circuit Judge A. A. "Andy" Mateosian was unable to attend the meeting, but his daughter, Jane, spoke on his behalf, reviewing the judge's background and endorsements.

A high school senior, Miss Mateosian said she has been proud of her father and plans to follow his example by entering college as a political science major and possibly pursuing a law career.

County Board candidates present were Walter "Dick" Spraks, the incumbent in District 16; William "Bill" Webb, who is unopposed for re-election in District 19; Incumbent Daniel Partney and challenger John Jeff Worthen from District 21; Incumbent Rod Baader in District 23, and the three candidates from District 26, incumbent Louis Whitsell, Helen Hawkins and Art Thies.

Space will be limited. Speakers will include Robert Thornberry and Don Weathers of the Conservation Department; Richard J. Schuch of the State Water Survey; David Gross of the Geological Survey; Ted Mikessell of The Planning Commission; and Henry D. Karantjoff, chairman of the Horseshoe Lake Area Commission.

Also scheduled are mayors, legislators, county officials, citizens and representatives of groups, the sanitary district, Environmental Protection Agency, Transportation Department and Army Engineer Corps.

Items scheduled for discussion include research, development, management and the outlook for the area. An open discussion is also projected.

The Illinois Department of Conservation, the State Water and Geological Survey, and the Southwestern Illinois Metropolitan and Regional Planning Commission will host an informational meeting on the future of Horseshoe Lake in Madison County on Monday, March 13.

The meeting will begin at 10:30 a.m. and will be held in the old School of Business room of the University Center at SIU at Edwardsville.

Bolts missing—But not bumps—at rail crossings

FAULTY MAINTENANCE? Many couplings of rails similar to the one shown have loose bolts and sometimes have missing bolts, as this one does. The problem is not reserved for the Quad-City area alone.

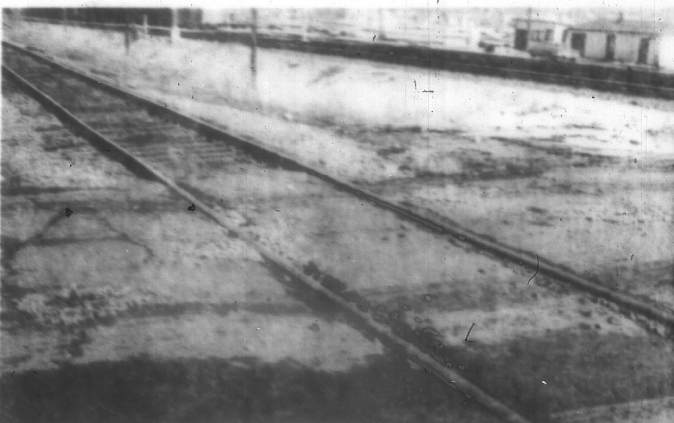

It is a common problem on rail lines due to the vibrations of trains moving along the tracks. This particular location is near the West Pontoon Road crossing.

SURVIVOR'S ROD marked in tenths-of-feet is used by engineering department employees during the photographing of railroad crossings in Granite City. Use the rod in such photos supports written notes on the size and depth of potholes and ruts. Pictures of crossings surveyed are a new addition to the city's crossing inspection reports.

Press-Record photo feature by Pat Foley

TEMPORARY REPAIR of deep holes is noted at this rail crossing at 26th Street and Nantucki Drive, after city engineering department employees photograph the crossing. The repair work consisted of filling potholes and runs on either side of the rails with coarse rock, about the size of golf balls. The rock fails to stay in the holes for long, and should be much smaller according to department employees.

State goals—tax stability, job growth, rail improvements

By GOVERNOR JAMES R. THOMPSON

Any government budget is more than just a blueprint for spending of a fiscal year. It is also a moral and political statement, a guide to the basic priorities and goals of the administration which presents it.

Talk may be cheap—even in government—but the dollar and cents figures of a budget are the litmus test for a whole year of pronouncements and promises.

In an honest budget, as we have had for two years now, the citizens of a state can clearly see the importance given various activities of state government—the distinction between what the state would like to do and what the state can afford to do—and the bargain which has been struck between meeting the needs of the present and avoiding a mortgage on the resources of the future.

In recent years, two trends have combined to work against dramatic increases in the size of government budgets. One trend, strong in every part of the country, as well as in both political parties.

The first trend is a heightened skepticism about the powers of government itself. Again and again, people have come to question not whether a government program is well-intentioned, but whether it can ever begin to accomplish what it intends.

It is no longer enough to isolate a problem in order to justify a government solution. Today, we have to provide a reasonable expectation that the solution will be effective and that it will be worth the tax dollars it consumes.

This last consideration, the consideration of value, is a part of the second trend—a greater appreciation for the cost of government to the people who pay for it.

Once you have shown that a government program is effective, you still have to weigh it against the dollars it takes out of people's pockets.

The money they don't have to spend on food or clothing or cars or homes because the government has other plans for it.

Taxes have never been popular in the history of this or any nation.

An old joke has it that if the American colonists didn't like taxation without representation, they should come back and find out what taxation with representation is like.

Unfortunately, that old joke becomes more appropriate and less funny every year.

In 1978, in the wake of dramatic rises in property taxes for many Illinois cities, as well as sharp increases in the Social Security tax, the citizens of our state look to Springfield with a mixture of exasperation and fear.

They know that tax revenues are not some kind of vague resource fabricated out of other people's excess income.

Tax monies—especially the sales tax and the income tax—represent real chunks out of real people's income... money that they won't have to spend in their own lives.

Taxes are not only a drag on the economy, they are a drag on the individual pursuit of happiness of persons who work very hard for the dubious privilege of paying them.

As such, that money is a trust... one which must be used with the utmost wisdom and care.

After years of deficit spending, spending which had nearly wiped out our General Revenue Fund, we passed a balanced budget.

What's more, it was a balanced budget with no tax increases, no prevention of bankruptcy. It restored confidence in our ability to provide and pay for human services.

It protected our AAA bond rating and saved Illinois taxpayers millions of dollars in interest costs. And it eliminated the deficit base in our budget.

A penny saved is a penny earned, said Poor Richard's Almanac a long, long time ago. But in budgeting terms, a penny saved is also a penny carried over a saving that appears in the form of a lower base the following year.

Our fiscal discipline in 1977 gives us room to take a breath in 1978.

This does not mean that the fiscal crisis is over. It is not. The "well" is still at the door.

But at least we have closed that door in his face.

As long as we remain within the parameters of our modestly expanding revenues, we will be safe and secure.

What does all this translate to in dollars and cents? As the late Senator Everett Dirksen is supposed to have said, "A billion here, a billion there... and it can add up to some real money."

This year's budget for the state of Illinois adds up to $11.26 billion, an increase of 4.7 percent.

Like last year's budget, it is a balanced budget. It will again put some money back into the bank.

Eleven billion dollars. This will raise our general reserves from $85 million to $96 million, just about the $100 million mark which is necessary to protect against cash flow problems and sudden emergencies.

In spite of last year's budget, it is balanced with no tax increase. This is notable because—unlike the federal government and many other states—we do not depend on a progressive tax rate, which permits inflation to drive people into higher and higher tax brackets.

Also, like last year's budget, it is the only major state to go without a tax increase since 1969. With legislators' help, we will be able to keep that record going into fiscal 1979.

As was the case last year, the largest budget increase of $162 million is nearly 50 percent higher than last year's $122 million increase, and brings the level of total education spending to $3.2 billion—on the average a per-student increase of eight percent, clearly ahead of the expected inflation rate of five to six percent.

Real education requires real dollars and this budget contains real growth in those dollars for fiscal 1979.

In addition, the budget for elementary and secondary education includes for the first time 100 percent funding of state-mandated programs. These include transportation, special education, bilingual instruction, and hold-harmless provisions.

I have said it was time to stop requiring local governments to take a particular action, and then disapproving when the bills for that action come due. This education budget delivers on that promise.

I encourage the General Assembly to consider formula relief in education during this session. But I repeat that I will sign no formula reform unless it is equitable and fully-funded in this year's budget.

We won't go back to the political shell game of now-you-see-it, now-you-don't-see-it.

The higher education budget will permit an eight percent salary increase for academic staff and a 10 percent increase for non-academic staff.

At a time when many levels of government are looking for ways to help middle-class families afford rising college costs, this budget includes the most basic and universal type of help: There will be no tuition increase in fiscal 1979.

Transportation is vitally important to every citizen. This budget contains one of the largest road programs of any state in the nation—almost $1.4 billion.

This dramatic figure was made possible by the combination of the Croyston agreement plus more aggressive work by the Department of Transportation in securing federal dollars.

In fiscal 1978 and 1979, Illinois will receive $1.25 for every dollar it contributes to federal highway funds, a sharp turn-around from the negative road fund return of the last several years as well as a marked contrast to continued federal discrimination in other areas.

State support of local public transit systems will exceed $180 million, and an additional $205 million of state and federal funds will be used to upgrade transit systems.

The state will also work for federal solutions to improve federal rail service and act as a catalyst for a unified federal, state, local and private effort to advance the St. Louis railroad gateway terminal project in the East St. Louis area.

Rising property taxes have been a serious burden on homeowners throughout the state, and no one is more vulnerable than the elderly.

They have seen their homes shoot up in value while they remain on a pension or other fixed income.

The circuit-breaker program was passed to provide relief to groups. But in many ways it remained one of the best kept secrets in Springfield.

I sometimes think many politicians who were proud of the circuit-breaker program silently hoped that not too many elderly people would take advantage of it.

This past year we changed that. The lieutenant governor's office, the Department on Aging and the Department of Revenue made sure that persons who were eligible were made aware of it.

More people than ever before registered for the program. What's more, we provided them with back payments for the past five years of eligibility.

For that reason, I ask you to support a supplemental appropriation of $18 million for fiscal 1979 to pay for the much higher participation in the circuit-breaker program.

In addition, I believe the program itself should be expanded. This budget contains $20 million for expanding coverage of the program, about a third of which will enable us to raise the maximum income level from $10,000 to $12,000.

Since the maximum grant was raised last year from $300 to $600, this represents its second major expansion during administration.

No one deserves a break more than people who have worked hard and paid taxes all their lives. Let's give them a bigger break in 1979.

We will highlight programs which deserve individual mention. But before I do, I want to establish the thread which binds them all together.

That thread is very simple. It is "jobs."

Jobs in the private sector. Jobs in the public sector. Jobs secured by new initiatives to get federal dollars.

Jobs created by aggressive salesmanship in agriculture, film-making and tourism. Jobs protected by climate and balanced budgets.

Jobs attracted by tax incentives and revitalized state-local cooperation. Jobs continued and expanded with a strong capital spending program.

Up-and-down the line from agency to agency and from first dollar to last—the heart of the budget is jobs, and the economic health it brings.

In addition to government programs, a strong capital building program is essential to stability in the private construction industry.

There is an exceptionally big road program. This budget also includes $15 million to begin work on a new state office building for downtown Chicago.

Coal development bonds, sold for the first time in fiscal 1978, will provide support for the bold new capital projects.

A low-BTU coal gasification plant in Pekin will combine state, federal and private funding to create an investment in excess of $100 million.

Agreements will be signed shortly for state participation in a demonstration of the fluidized-bed combustion process at the Great Lakes Naval Station. Fluidized-bed combustion involves the burning of high-sulfur coal, which produces the type of coal which Illinois has in abundance.

In this project, less than $60,000 in state funds will be matched by almost $2 million in federal and private funds.

The budget also includes $3 million for a proposed coal liquids refinery. We hope the availability of these funds will encourage the federal government to choose Illinois as the site for this refinery.

And $1 million will be available in fiscal 79 for demonstration projects using alternate forms of energy, such as solar energy or agricultural waste conversion.

On top of state jobs and government-generated jobs, the budget for fiscal 79 includes a significant initiative to generate more jobs entirely in the private sector.

I will support an amendment creating a phased exemption from the state sales tax for equipment, machinery in a new or expanded manufacturing facility. This will put the exemption where it will do the most good and create the most jobs.

By permitting a 50 percent exemption in fiscal 79, and a 100 percent exemption in fiscal 80, we can afford this tax incentive without any new or replacement taxes.

As most of you know, Illinois is the only Midwestern state that still has such a tax. That means we've been fighting the battle for plant locations with a self-inflicted wound.

It's time we healed that wound, and put Illinois at the front of the line again. With your help, we can do it this year.

In the Department of Public Aid, it's straight monthly declining welfare caseloads have made it possible to make our resources go further.

For example, we are now in a position to be able to grant a five percent increase to recipients of public assistance.

Ever with increasing total income assistance figure will be less than it was two years ago.

Our efficiencies as well as the state of the economy have made it possible to offer more help at the same time we spend less.

When was the last time a government could say that?

This is also the first time in four years that a supplemental appropriation will not be needed to balance Public Aid spending.

The budget includes the transfer of responsibility for public assistance fraud from the Department of Public Aid to the Department of Law Enforcement, and increase our capabilities in this area. We can and should have more help for those who deserve it, but we must also have more help for those who don't deserve it.

That thread is very simple. It is "jobs."

Coal development bonds, sold for the first time in fiscal 1978, will provide support for the bold new capital projects.

A low-BTU coal gasification plant in Pekin will combine state, federal and private funding to create an investment in excess of $100 million.

Agreements will be signed shortly for state participation in a demonstration of the fluidized-bed combustion process at the Great Lakes Naval Station. Fluidized-bed combustion involves the burning of high-sulfur coal, which produces the type of coal which Illinois has in abundance.

In this project, less than $60,000 in state funds will be matched by almost $2 million in federal and private funds.

The budget also includes $3 million for a proposed coal liquids refinery. We hope the availability of these funds will encourage the federal government to choose Illinois as the site for this refinery.

And $1 million will be available in fiscal 79 for demonstration projects using alternate forms of energy, such as solar energy or agricultural waste conversion.

On top of state jobs and government-generated jobs, the budget for fiscal 79 includes a significant initiative to generate more jobs entirely in the private sector.

I will support an amendment creating a phased exemption from the state sales tax for equipment, machinery in a new or expanded manufacturing facility. This will put the exemption where it will do the most good and create the most jobs.

By permitting a 50 percent exemption in fiscal 79, and a 100 percent exemption in fiscal 80, we can afford this tax incentive without any new or replacement taxes.

As most of you know, Illinois is the only Midwestern state that still has such a tax. That means we've been fighting the battle for plant locations with a self-inflicted wound.

It's time we healed that wound, and put Illinois at the front of the line again. With your help, we can do it this year.

In the Department of Public Aid, it's straight monthly declining welfare caseloads have made it possible to make our resources go further.

For example, we are now in a position to be able to grant a five percent increase to recipients of public assistance.

Ever with increasing total income assistance figure will be less than it was two years ago.

Our efficiencies as well as the state of the economy have made it possible to offer more help at the same time we spend less.

When was the last time a government could say that?

This is also the first time in four years that a supplemental appropriation will not be needed to balance Public Aid spending.

The budget includes the transfer of responsibility for public assistance fraud from the Department of Public Aid to the Department of Law Enforcement, and increase our capabilities in this area. We can and should have more help for those who deserve it, but we must also have more help for those who don't deserve it.

That thread is very simple. It is "jobs."

Jobs in the private sector. Jobs in the public sector. Jobs secured by new initiatives to get federal dollars.

Jobs created by aggressive salesmanship in agriculture, film-making and tourism. Jobs protected by climate and balanced budgets.

Jobs attracted by tax incentives and revitalized state-local cooperation. Jobs continued and expanded with a strong capital spending program.

Up-and-down the line from agency to agency and from first dollar to last—the heart of the budget is jobs, and the economic health it brings.

In addition to government programs, a strong capital building program is essential to stability in the private construction industry.

There is an exceptionally big road program. This budget also includes $15 million to begin work on a new state office building for downtown Chicago.

He will have counselors available to assist any senior citizen needing help with their income tax, at that location on Tuesday only. Other dates can be arranged at Anchorage by special appointment with the coordinator only.

Local churches aids world hunger project

Lenten donations which are collected at three downtown churches will provide enough money to purchase two Holstein pregnant heifers which will be transported to the United Republic of Tanzania in cooperation with the Tanzania Development Authority and participating agencies. The animals will form a foundation herd from which the developing nation can expand its dairy industry, the local clergymen added.

Combined Lenten services were arranged by Rev. Maxton, pastor of the First United Presbyterian Church, the Rev. William Mathias, minister at the Niedringhaus United Methodist Church, and the Rev. William Christal, pastor of St. Peter Evangelical United Church of Christ.

Two services are held at each of the participating churches as a joint effort to provide community involvement and understanding between the congregations, and the public.

While Heifer Project International works with and receives support from various sources — farmers, service clubs and organizations, more than two-thirds of its support comes from churches and church related organizations.

The United Church of Christ, the United Presbyterian Church, and the United Methodist Church, account for nearly one-third of the organizations.

The initial project began on Sept. 23, 1975, when Heifer Project International, an ecological organization which provides livestock and poultry, and training in their care, to persons in developing areas around the world, flew 140 Holstein yearling heifers to the United Republic of Tanzania.

The shipment was the first of an eventual 1180 head which HPI is placing, over a two year period, in cooperation with the Tanzania Livestock Development Authority and other participating agencies. The animals will form a foundation herd from which the developing nation can expand its dairy industry, the local clergymen added.

According to Heifer Project International's executive director Ed Geers, the HPI's reason for being is to help make development human. To that end the organization, in its 20 year history, has been responsible for placing over 30,000 animals and over 1½ million chickens with needy persons in over 90 countries and more than 20 states in the USA, he added.

Geers reports, Heifer Project's basic concept is that whenever an animal is placed, the recipient agrees that the first female offspring of the gift animal will be given to another needy family. And the family in turn to do the same.

"Solving the problem of hunger one family at a time," says Geers, "is a trademark of the Heifer Project approach." The organization has found that concept to be a proven method of making permanent improvements in the standard of living of needy families, he noted.

According to the Rev. Maxton collections have now reached the $700 mark and $1,000 is needed to purchase two heifers for the international project.

Dedication Sunday at Madison Church

The Madison United Methodist Church, Fifth and Ewing streets, will dedicate new choir robes during the 10 a.m. worship service Sunday, March 12. The Chancel Choir will present several anthems during the service. Rev. Edward Weston announced.

Some of the robes were given as memorials to, Mary Bevil, Margaret Brown, Anna Mae Echols, Amanda Hill, Elton Hewitt, Opha McMahon, Danny Lewis, and former quilters of the Quilting Group. One robe was given in memory of Ann Ritter and in living honor of Glen Ritter, former organist at the church.

Two robes were given in living honor of Estella McBrian and Nina Hocking. The special choir director's robe was given by Betty Ballentine, the choir director. The robes were purchased by relatives, friends, the United Methodist Women, and the Quilters.

The robes are a brilliant gold color with two reversible sides, reflecting the four main liturgical colors. Each stole has an embossed gold cross on each side.

The public is invited to worship with the congregation as they dedicate these new robes in memory of and in living honor of loved ones, the minister added.

Special film Sunday at Central Baptist

A film entitled "Save Our Nation" will be shown on Sunday, March 12, at Central Baptist Church, 2810 Highway 111, at 6:30 in the evening, it was announced by the pastor, the Rev. John Lamb.

The film relates to the thousands who went to Dallas, Tex., to take their stand for separation of church and state and features Dr. Bob Jones Jr., Dr. Bob Jones III, and Dr. Jack Hyles.

Also included in the presentation is Marine Lieutenant Clebe McClary who was wounded in Vietnam and relates the battle experiences of the servicemen. Evangelist Lester Roloff gives the challenge to the 1,500 preachers to keep the state out of churches and homes, Rev. Lamb added.

In Memoriam 33

In Memory of MRS. MAY GIPSON who passed away one year ago

March 11th Today recalls sad memories of a loved one to rest. Those who think of you today are the ones who loved to see you smile.

Today sit with us and talk awhile. The blow was sudden the shock was severe.

To rest with one we loved so dear. We often sit and think of you. Things we used to say. I wonder why you had to die. Without a chance to say goodbye.

Sadly missed by Daughter Alice and Husband 33.3.9

Federal food cost accounting seminar

The Madison Board of Education authorized at a meeting Thursday evening Mrs. Evelyn Holt, cafeteria supervisor, and at least one other person, yet to be named, to attend a cost-accounting seminar.

The seminar is being given on May 17 at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville for all food service sponsors which received $50,000 or more in state and federal food service reimbursements during the federal fiscal year ending Sept. 30, 1977.

The purpose is to explain how to submit the cost accounting semi-annual financial report form, in accordance with U.S. Department of Agriculture guidelines.

The Madison district, along with all districts above the $50,000 mark, will be required to begin reporting in the "essential cost accounting" format, beginning with an April 1979 semi-annual report for the Oct. 1, 1978, through March 31, 1979, period.

The board approved Superintendent of Schools John Palchick discussing use of Dunbar school for the federal Head Start program with Edward P. Schenk, executive director, Madison County Economic Opportunity Commission.

Schenk, in a letter, said the Madison County EOC would be responsible for insurance, cost of utilities, and ordinary upkeep and maintenance, freeing the district from those responsibilities regarding pre-school children.

In other action: The board approved Fran Brownman, school social worker, attending a seminar at SIUE on Friday and Saturday, March 10 and 11, on various aspects of parenthood.

The board approved a request from Bernard Long, principal at Dunbar, for a round-robin basketball tournament involving Dunbar School students only in grades four, five and six Friday, and a "sock hop" from 3:40 p.m. until 4:40 p.m. the same day.

The board also approved a letter to all building principals, reminding them of the board of policy that prior board approval is required for any money-making programs in school activities.

Following the meeting, the board listened to parts of six 30-minute tapes, "Cornerstones of Southern Illinois." The tapes were presented to all area schools by the First Granite City National Bank as a supplement to the regular curriculum.

The cassette tapes contain a total of 150 programs pertaining to Southern Illinois.

AWARD TO SENATOR. The Urban Counties Council of Illinois presents its 1978 legislative award to Senator Sam M. Vadalabene (center), Edwardsville. Arthur R. Gottschalk (left), executive director, and Victor Canty (right), president, present the plaque to Vadalabene following meeting of the Urban Counties Council at Springfield. It is "in recognition and appreciation of outstanding legislative service benefiting the cause of efficient and effective county government." The Urban Counties Council is an organization representing the county boards of 24 major Illinois counties, including Madison County. The award is one of eight legislative awards newly presented to selected Illinois legislators.

Thompson, Carter differ on farm loans and target prices

By ROBERT ESTILL
Press-Record

Washington Bureau
The governor of the Nation's leading agricultural export state is unhappy with the Carter administration's response to suggestions for aiding farmers.

Illinois Gov. James Thompson doesn't believe there has been an adequate response to suggestions he and eight other Midwestern governors made to President Carter and Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland in a meeting at the White House a month ago.

At that time, Thompson was one of the voices of moderation. He said then that the administration listened to the proposals and should be allowed 30 to 60 days to act. If the administration didn't respond favorably, Thompson predicted, most of the farm state governors would join farmers in pressing Congress to provide remedies.

Within a week after that meeting, Bergland took steps to encourage farmers to put their grain in reserve, centerpiece of the administration's program to drive up market prices.

Bergland expanded the farm storage facility loan program, and increased the storage subsidy by a nickel a bushel. He allowed barley, oats and wheat to be placed directly in reserves without having to wait for federal loans on the crops to mature.

But Thompson's concern is what the administration has not done.

"They have not raised the target prices," Thompson said.

"Without a raise in target prices, you are not going to get a sufficient participation in set-asides.

"They have not moved to amend the provisions of the Farmers Home Administration Act to help refinance young farmers who got in over their heads."

"And we will have to wait and see — and this will take longer than 30 to 60 days — what emphasis Robert Strauss (Mr. Carter's trade ambassador) gives to agriculture in the upcoming trade talks."

Thompson is not prepared to say that the Carter administration gave them a "snow job" in saying there would be responses to their concerns within 30 to 60 days. "It is too early to tell," said Thompson.

"I do not think their time has expired yet. I sometimes chafe under deadlines imposed by others or accepted by me when they come pounding the desk in my office."

"When I am not ready in 30 days, I get mad at myself for letting other people tell me I will have a response in 30 days."

But Thompson still feels there should be more adequate responses from the administration within a month. "They were the ones who set the deadline," he said.

"If people can hold me to my time limits when I set them, I am certainly entitled to hold them to what they said would be reasonable."

If Thompson is prepared to lead a march on the Capitol in the absence of administration responses, he had better start facing up his hiking boots.

Tom Sand, Bergland's press secretary, said what the governors have seen is largely what they are going to get.

He said the administration still sees no need for increasing target prices.

As for FMHA loans, he noted that the agriculture department has had a moratorium on foreclosures since October and for months has been studying means of revamping the program.

But that does not mean FMHA loans are going to be easier to get. In fact, it could be more difficult.

The USDA is sticking to its position that the lower interest FMHA loans (Now three to five percent) should be available only to farmers who cannot get loans elsewhere.

The USDA is backing legislation which would raise interest rates on FMHA loans — except disaster loans — to the same rate as the banks.

One thing the USDA is planning is an education program aimed at farmers and politicians, Sand said.

"We are getting a little upset with some of the demands for action," he said. "What they do not seem to understand is that we have ongoing programs, and the moratorium on farm loans is one example."

"We suspect the governors are hearing from all the people who want cheap FMHA loans."

Sand said the USDA's position is: "If they can get financing somewhere else, we see no reason why they should be coming to us."

CB calls aiding many motorists

Maryville (3-2) KIL011 — "Help is NEAR by 9." The popularity of citizen band radios among the motoring public has created a nationwide communications network second to none. Virtually every single mile of highways can be reached by CB radio.

The acronym NEAR stand for National Emergency Aid Radio system.

NEAR seeks to reduce police response time to emergency situations and also allows the motorist to receive information or transmit information to the police or other emergency agencies. Trooper James G. Gallo, Maryville district public information officer reports.

"The Illinois State Police have CB radios installed in their squad cars and there is a CB base radio at each district headquarters."

"The Illinois State Police call sign is KIL 011. Channel 9 is constantly monitored. A typical transmission for assistance would be:

"Motorist: Request any trooper vicinity 1-70 Mile Post 36."

"Trooper: This is KIL 011 Unit 11-11: go ahead with your transmission."

"Motorist: There is an accident on 1-70 at Mile Post 36, Eastbound, road partially blocked and there are injuries."

"Trooper: Thank you for the information; police and ambulance enroute. KIL011."

"In Illinois, there have been 52,000 CB calls per month for assistance, information or other calls of an emergency nature."

"In District Eleven, Maryville, which covers a nine-county area, there have been nearly 5,000 CB calls per month."

"These calls are received directly by state police personnel or through one of the many CB base stations throughout the area which are operated by REACT, a civilian organization that monitors Channel 9."

"The Illinois State Police and numerous REACT members are listening in on Channel 9 to help you," Gallo concludes.

Charge youth with criminal damage

Roger S. Stiles, 17, St. Louis, was charged Friday with criminal damage to property stemming from a Feb. 14 incident in the 1900 block of State St.

Rich Hall, 2455 Lincoln Ave., saw two youths inside his, parked van at 12:40 a.m. Feb. 14 and alleged they removed a console containing a CB radio, stereo and speakers.

Hall chased the youth with the console, who dropped it and ran. Hall caught the man and took a Missouri identification from him. The youth fled as Hall returned to his van and the identification card was turned over to police.

The charge stems from damage done to the console and van in removing it.

Traffic injuries drop

Two persons were hurt fatally and 38 persons were injured in 45 injury-related traffic accidents in the Quad-City area during February, according to statistics compiled by the Press-Record.

Both the number of accidents and the number of persons injured in those mishaps declined below those recorded in February of the previous year when 54 persons were hurt in 71 injury-related accidents. Mishaps involving property damage only are not included in the statistics.

Injury accidents last month brought to 84 the total of such accidents during the first two months of this year, with 39 mishaps recorded in January. The number of persons injured, including the 34 reported in January (identical to the number hurt in February) totals 116 for the two months of this year.

The total of 84 injury accidents during the two months this year compares with 103 for the same period of 1977, while the number of persons injured over the two-month period this year totals 116, down from 145 during the same period a year ago.

The two fatalities during February are unchanged from two reported in the same month in 1977, and bring to three the total for the two month period this year.

This is one less than four fatalities for the same period last year when there were two deaths in January and two in February.

Lucco favors making license plates in state

State Representative Joe E. Lucco (D) is co-sponsoring a bill to authorize correctional institutions of Illinois to manufacture vehicle licenses.

The Illinois Motor Vehicle License Commission, of which Lucco is a member, voted at a meeting held in Springfield on Thursday to propose the bill.

The license plates had been made in Illinois correctional institutions prior to 1938. Since then a private firm, Strucko of Macomb, manufactured them until 1973, when the licenses were made in prisons out-of-state.

This year, the contract was let for one year to the prison systems of Texas. Lucco proposed that bids be accepted from private industry and, if they were not competitive, that Illinois prisons be awarded the contract.

The correctional systems say that they can make the licenses in the Pontiac prison at competitive costs with the Texas prisons.

Lucco's idea of using Illinois prisons, if private industry was not interested, was endorsed by the United Steelworkers representative, John Albia.

Lucco says that manufacturing of license plates in Illinois will provide income for prisoners and their families and teach them good work attitudes.

Also, Illinois industry can share in providing the necessary steel, he concludes.

DRIVER IS HURT

Mrs. Barbara Werner, 35, of 2254 Cleveland Blvd., was injured when a car she was driving was in an auto accident. She was treated last week at St. Elizabeth Hospital for an abrasion to her right knee, a cut to her chin and pain to her chest. X-rays were taken and she was released.

GC elementary school spelling bee winners

Granite City High School South was the scene of the second annual spelling bee for elementary grade school students during the weekend, attended by school principals, teachers and parents.

The pupils were entered in three categories according to grade level, including the first division for those in the second and third grades; another division for the fourth and fifth graders and one for sixth-grade pupils. Each of the 16 sixth-grade building winners are eligible for the greater St. Louis Area Spelling Bee.

Trophies were presented to the three top winners, Rochelle Wallace from Marshall School, Beth Gasparovic, Maryville School, and Ken Dauer, Frohardt School.

Those named as runner-up contestants were Neil Detwiler of Wilson School, Daniel Jorgensen, Stallings School, and Tracy Windland, Emerson School.

Pronouncers for the event were Beverly Scroggins, South High School speech teacher; Carol Noeth, North High School English teacher, and Donna Clow, Coolidge department head.

Judging the affair were Carol Hildebrand, Prather department head; Mike Sikora, Coolidge principal; Marceline Williams, North English teacher, L. William Fever, Prather assistant principal; Helen Kuensler, South English department head, and Wayne Hubbard, North speech teacher.

The committee in charge of the event included Owen Humphrey, curriculum coordinator; Merna Musterman, gifted consultant; Arthur Menendez, Mitchell School principal; Estelle Massie, Frohardt School teacher; Linda Rock, Parkview School; Mary Lou Schwab, Marshall School; and the leadership of chairman Mrs. Agnes Fryntzko, principal of Parkview School.

Solution needed soon on utilization of metropolitan bridges

When there is no forward progress, there usually is backward movement. This is proving true with St. Louis metropolitan area Mississippi River bridges, several of which are rusting and becoming hazardous due to lack of funds to maintain them, while motorists congest the free Interstate-carrying Poplar Street Bridge and exceed its projected 1990s capacity.

We don't have an exact formula to suggest, but there surely is a solution somewhere and the federal, Illinois and Missouri governments should try hard to find it. Expenditures to buy or subsidize some of the bridges may be necessary, but the cost would be far less than having to construct new bridges to supplement the Poplar span.

As Madison County Board Chairman Nelson Hagnauer has noted repeatedly at East-West Gateway Coordinating Council meetings, it doesn't make sense to see one bridge overflowing and four others relatively empty.

It will be recalled that the City of Madison got out of the bridge business at the right time. Acquiring the angled-in-middle two-lane Chain of Rocks Bridge in 1939, on the Highway 60 bypass route more or less "around" St. Louis, Madison spent only $2,300,000 and was able to retire this and a subsequent bond issue.

Tolls enabled big sums to be transferred to the Madison city treasury, financing street and other improvements. After a four-lane federal bridge was built nearby, charging no tolls on Interstate 270, the city bridge was closed.

East St. Louis "got in on the act" by building a new bridge in 1951, now called the Martin Luther King Bridge. Many of its bonds were retired, but the current traffic volume is low. Needed repairs accumulating over the last decade are estimated to cost $4 million or more. It, too, charges motorists and has tough competition from the free, federally-operated Poplar bridge.

Venice spent $22 million to buy the McKinley Bridge and, to this day, it has provided handy St. Louis access for Quad-Cityans as well as jobs for Venice residents. The cost was not as huge as it sounds, because the agreement called for substantial yearly track rent to be paid to the city by the previous bridge owner, Illinois Terminal Railroad. But about $18 million debt remains and this has hampered Venice's funding for repairs and maintenance.

McKinley charges a toll, as does the 104-year-old Eads Bridge, owned by the Terminal Railroad Association. The other metropolitan bridge, aside from the rail-trafficked-only Merchants Bridge in Venice, is the St. Louis city government's MacArthur Bridge, which still lacks sufficient access to principal highways.

East-West, the Bi-State Development Agency, the Terminal Railroad, Venice, East St. Louis and St. Louis are among those meeting to seek a way out of the impasse. Quad-Cityans wish them well, and also urge full attention to the problem by federal and state officials.

Miners right in rejecting bad proposal, Wall Street says

Wall Street Journal — Everyone is wondering what's bugging the coal miners, who just voted down a 37% wage and benefit increase.

But the more we look at it, the more we think that if we were a coal miner we'd have voted against the proposed contract, too.

Now that President Carter has moved for an 80-day cooling-off period, everyone wonders how to get the miners to comply. If we were a miner, what we'd want wouldn't be the contract raise immediately, as Mr. Carter suggested.

We'd much prefer some assurance that the supposedly smart guys would make constructive use of the 80 days, burning up the last agreement and starting from scratch.

UMW President Arnold Miller, the mine owners and the federal mediators can begin by apologizing for not following instructions in the first place.

Before the negotiations began last year, the miners were surveyed on their demands, and cited health benefits first, pension benefits second and wages third. Yet their union boss went the other way. The 37% package breaks down to 31% in wages and only 6% in fringe benefits.

And Mr. Miller negotiated away the all-expenses health plan the miners had for 30 years.

The point of all this, and the reason we'd have voted against the pact if we were coal miners, is that health benefits are not subject to federal income tax and pension benefits are deferred and taxed at lower rates, while wage increases are gobbled up at the miners' marginal tax rates.

The deductibility that Mr. Miller negotiated into the health plan, for instance, now must be paid in after-tax dollars, rather than tax-free ones. Similarly, the miners wanted to have pensions increased for those who retired prior to 1975 — often their fathers and grandfathers.

This is another way for a household to keep a pre-tax dollar from being clawed by Uncle Sam. The negotiators threw this idea out, too.

Instead, these private sector management and labor people seemed determined to maximize the government's cut of this new contract.

And what thanks do they get; the government economists fret that the 31% increase in wages may be "inflationary."

If those economists looked at what the miners' face, they might be able to understand what is happening to all of us.

We asked Steve Ettin, of the Joint Economic Committee of Congress, to figure out how much real income the coal miner is going to have in 1980 out of that 31% increase.

He took a miner filing jointly, with two children and taking the standard deduction.

He assumed a 6% per year inflation rate, that the Social Security tax increases would be retained, and that President Carter's "tax cut" would be enacted as proposed. The results:

By 1980, the miner working an average 1,800 hours, would earn a gross income of $18,360, up from $14,040 last year.

Assuming he has the advantage of the proposed Carter "tax cut," his combined federal income and Social Security tax would rise to $2,867 in 1980 from $2,171 in 1977.

In 1980 dollars, he would have after-tax income of $15,493, which at an inflation rate of 6% would be worth $13,008 in 1977 dollars.

Comparing this with his after-tax net of $11,899, he would have a raise of $1,139, or 9.6% over the three years.

If the inflation rate is 8% instead of 6%, however, half of that gain would be wiped out.

And out of whatever is left, the miners have to pay health fees that had been free, and must also help support fathers and grandfathers.

There is no small chance that they will end up going backward.

Inflation and taxation have similar effects, of course, on the mine operators' ability to pay wage increases.

But surely the owners can afford to be indifferent as to how a settlement is distributed, and in 80 days Mr. Miller ought to be able to figure out some way other than the one that maximizes the government's cut.

It is not the workers but the negotiators who need a "cooling off" period.

The idea that this breakdown has occurred because of an excess of union demands is absurd.

The miners have a point. But nobody seems to listen to them.

GRANDDAUGHTER Jenny receives the attention of the late Dr. Otto Bauer in this family photograph. With them is his daughter-in-law, Anula, the girl's mother.

Dr. Bauer's life—dedication to humanity

By JINNY TURKIN

The late Dr. Otto Bauer spent every day of his life remembering others.

Perhaps the greatest tribute that could be paid him by his friends and patients would be to remember the beneficence of Dr. Bauer just once a year. Although remembering Dr. Bauer only once a year might sound inadequate for a man who kept this community in mind for 24 years, the thought carries special significance if one is aware of Dr. Bauer's character.

Remembering him for more than a humble moment might have prompted his disagreement. Because, in the words of his friend, Sister Mary Thomas, "He did not see his dedication and giving as unusual."

Dr. Bauer came to Granite City in 1954 and served the Quad-City area singularly throughout his professional career.

His colleagues remember him as an early riser, 3 o'clock each morning, seven days a week, who spent 16 to 18 hours a day serving the people and eventually created one of the largest practices in the area.

Dr. Bernard Lattman shared a friendship with Dr. Bauer for 20 years.

He said of Dr. Bauer, "He epitomized the best in his generation and represented the highest standards in patient care. He was conscientious of his responsibility for the welfare of every patient, and saw many patients at their homes as well as at his office."

"He referred patients to other physicians when necessary so that they could receive the best care available."

Dr. Bauer was one of the first cardiologists in Granite City. He was a past chief of the St. Elizabeth Hospital staff, a past chief of internal medicine, and a past chief of the intensive care unit, a specialized medical unit he was instrumental in creating.

The director of nursing and former intensive care unit supervisor, Sister Mary Michael, recalled that Dr. Bauer taught the classes for the persons who were to staff the unit.

"He set high standards for himself and expected everyone else to do the same. He would not tolerate careless or shoddy work, and when he felt something lacking he made a point that it be corrected."

"But he was never abusive. People understood that he was a professional of high quality."

Former respiratory therapy and electrocardiogram director Curt Jackson came to know Dr. Bauer in 1971.

Jackson recalled that as the EKG Department cardiologist, Dr. Bauer gained the respect of all those connected with the department. And he strove for perfection in the skill and knowledge of Jackson and the technicians.

"He was a walking computer and had an incredible memory. After the dictating on 65 or more EKG's, he was able to detect the errors in a typewritten copy hours later."

"He never interfered with the way I ran the department; he was good to the technicians and remembered all of us at Christmas."

Dr. Bauer spent his final years with Jackson's department.

The technicians in the EKG Department also praised Dr. Bauer's service. "The patients always came to him for help. EKG technician Evelyn Kitchell.

"If Dr. Bauer went out of town, his return was straight to the hospital."

The technicians pointed out that Dr. Bauer was always there in time of need. He was never too busy for them and "didn't believe in wasting time sleeping."

Dr. Bauer's compulsive dedication to patient care meant late evening hours at the office, missed lunches, and an incredible patient workload.

Back in the summer of 1971, I made my first appearance in a courtroom as a senior law student representing a Public Aid divorce client.

The court was full of local attorneys and I was not at all nervous. The judge was Bill Johnson.

Suddenly, without warning, I found myself being severely scolded by Judge Johnson.

I had no idea what was wrong. I later discovered it was probably nothing but Bill Johnson's personal dislike for poor persons (like my client) who receive legal aid.

I was embarrassed before my fellow attorneys and my client, almost to the point of tears. That, fellow voters, was my first close encounter of a foul kind.

Several months later, I met a FAMILY CIRCLE. Pictured here are Dr. Maria Bauer, her husband, the late Dr. Otto Bauer; and their daughter, Christy.

According to Barbara Kinney, licensed practical nurse, "The more suggestion that he take it easy, even when he was sick, was unheard of."

"If a patient needed to see him and Dr. Bauer was on his way home, he would return to the office."

"Dr. Bauer insisted on showing respect for the patient."

There were many similar observations about Dr. Bauer. He was noted as a meticulous, disciplined physician who consistently maintained follow-up care.

"He knew everything that he needed to know about each of his patients."

Stomachs did not hinder him... there were times when Dr. Bauer would even walk to work.

Policies did not preoccupy him; his major interest was harmony.

When he suffered a heart attack some time ago, he continued to read EKG's at home. He just would not give up.

Dr. Bauer was born on April 30, 1916, in Mannheim, Baden-Württemberg, Germany. He met his wife, Maria, while attending medical school at the University of Bonn.

He graduated from the university in 1941, and was soon inducted into the German Army, where he served as a physician on the Russian front.

Near the end of World War II, he was captured by the American forces and served as a physician in a prisoner-of-war camp.

After the war, Dr. Bauer returned to his parents' home and found conditions intolerable. He knew that he must join his wife and make arrangements to leave Germany.

Maria was in an adjoining town, however, and commercial travel was highly restricted. In order to reach his wife and family, Dr. Bauer hid under coal in a railroad car for two days.

The train took him across the Rhine and to his family.

When the Bauers were able to leave Germany, they traveled to Belleville, Ill., to be with relatives.

During their marriage, Otto and Maria Bauer were blessed with three children: Joachim, Ingrid and Christy. Joe and Ingrid are dentists, and Christy, a teenager, is living at home.

Dr. Bauer will be remembered as a devoted father and grandfather.

Dr. Albert Tritan, who was his friend for 20 years, recalled that "he was a proud and loving father who made time for his children."

Sister Mary Thomas, president of the hospital, commented that "Dr. Bauer was also a deeply religious man, and often made visits to the Shrine of Our Lady of Sorrows in St. Charles, Mo."

As one of Dr. Bauer's friends said, "We have a tendency to glorify him for greatness, but there was a great man in this community who went somewhat unnoticed."

CHARLES DOUGLAS, Attorney at law

Lawyer compares judge candidates

To the Editor:

Back in the summer of 1971, I made my first appearance in a courtroom as a senior law student representing a Public Aid divorce client.

The court was full of local attorneys and I was not at all nervous. The judge was Bill Johnson.

Suddenly, without warning, I found myself being severely scolded by Judge Johnson.

I had no idea what was wrong. I later discovered it was probably nothing but Bill Johnson's personal dislike for poor persons (like my client) who receive legal aid.

I was embarrassed before my fellow attorneys and my client, almost to the point of tears. That, fellow voters, was my first close encounter of a foul kind.

Several months later, I met a friendly, outgoing, intelligent judge who went out of his way to help me prepare for the Illinois bar exam, simply because he is that sort of a man. That judge was Andy Mateosian.

Without knowing anything else about these two men, I cannot help but realize that the best judge for the people in Madison County is Andy Mateosian.

Ask any attorney in Madison County who is the best qualified judge, for it is they who must practice law in front of him and who expect fairness, honesty and integrity from him.

For the public — the person with a claim, or the person defending himself — who expect fair treatment and a right decision from the judge.

Andy Mateosian is not the experienced politician Bill Johnson is, thank God.

Any man who secures political support from the very same politicians he previously scorned cannot, in my book, possess the impartiality required of a judge.

For the sake of lawyers and the public whom they represent, put a man in office who has and will perform his job with dedication and whom the Supreme Court of Illinois chose as the best qualified.

Let's elect Andy Mateosian March 21.

LOREN L. MADISON, Ponton Beach

Wolf viewed as qualified, competent

To the Editor:

In the March 21 election, we can help improve state government by electing Sam Wolf as state representative of the 36th District.

We can elect a local candidate who is familiar with local problems. We can elect a competent, qualified businessman who will give total commitment to help solve some of the problems of our area.

In the Granite City, Madison, Venice and Ponton Beach area we have a high percentage of the population of Madison County.

We deserve a man from our area as a state legislator.

I know Sam Wolf, the candidate, and Sam Wolf, the man. He works the people of the 36th District are special to him.

Sam understands our needs and will work with our local government to help solve some of the pressing needs of our area.

Therefore, young girls are forced to make this difficult decision on their own.

They aren't mature enough or knowledgeable enough about the abortion procedure and complications to really give informed consent for the physician to take the new life from their womb, and possibly even their own life.

They are misled and misinformed about abortion and fetal development.

The words fetus, tissues and cells are used instead of the only true word, which is "baby," an unborn child.

A clinic employee was interviewed on Channel 5 News about this and she said one-third of her patients are minors and area. We have a chance, in Sam Wolf, to elect a strong voice to serve the people of our area.

On election day, we can give Sam three votes by putting an X in the box that will be clearly marked on the ballot.

When we vote for Sam Wolf, we vote for the only candidate for state representative from our Quad-City area.

LOREN L. MADISON, Ponton Beach

Young making difficult decision alone

To the Editor:

House Bill 480 says that minors in Illinois need parental consent to have an abortion. A judge has decided that this bill is unconstitutional.

So, for the time being, young girls can get an abortion without parental consent or even knowledge.

Why doesn't this judge feel that this emergency care — example, appendectomy — should be viewed in the same manner?

The words "it has been decided" are used instead of the only true word, which is "baby," an unborn child.

If the law says a girl does not need parental consent, either, but will take what she feels is the easiest route.

only two-thirds of these have parental consent.

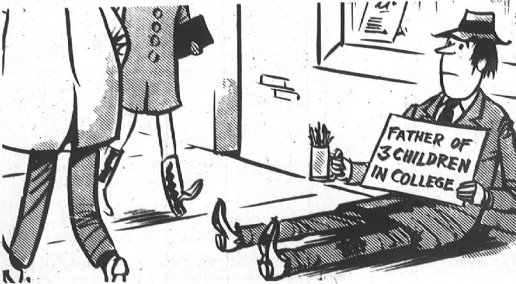

If House Bill 480 is kept, what would happen to the remaining one-third?

They would escape the many complications of abortion. They may save their life and the life of a beautiful baby, give birth, keep their baby, or perhaps give it up for adoption.

Either way, they will feel great about themselves, grow up with a great deal and great respect and love for life.

Parents, save your daughters now. Talk with them frequently. Show them your love and concern. Also, write your lawmakers now.

Child's recovery from birth defects termed a 'miracle'

By VALERIE EVENDEN
Press-Record Staff Writer

The granddaughter of a Granite City couple has survived several operations and weathered the dire predictions of the physicians attending her birth and has developed into a lovely 4 1/2-year-old child, who is bright and happy.

Angela Lynn Owens is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jim (Pat) Owens of Salem, Mo., and a granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy E. Bellman, 3008 Forest Ave.

The family believes a special miracle surrounds the small girl who seemed destined to be paralyzed from the waist down, according to the attending physicians.

The worst prognosis, however, was that she would be a vegetable with little or no mental ability.

Angela was born with a birth defect such as occurs in about one in 500 newborn babies.

The condition is not a factor of heredity and is not caused by medicine ingested by the mother or anything occurring before or during pregnancy.

Born in a Springfield (Mo.) hospital on Thanksgiving Day, Nov. 22, 1973, Angela weighed a healthy eight pounds, seven ounces.

Dr. Karpel, a pediatrician, Dr. Whitlock, a neurosurgeon, and Dr. Holmes, the physician in charge, informed the parents their newborn daughter had a hole in her back and that her spine was open.

The couple was told the immediate danger was from infection, and that major surgery would be necessary the following day to cover the spinal cord with tissue and skin.

They were given little hope that should Angela survive the operation, she would ever be a normal child.

The day after the infant's birth, Dr. Whitlock performed the surgery, closure of myelomeningocele, and a plastic surgeon, Dr. Whinsky, closed the open spine.

At this point, the Owens feel the first signs of the miracle concerning their daughter became evident.

The doctors told the anxious parents the spinal cord was back in place with layers of tissue built up around it, and that the skin had been layered and joined.

Special good news was the nerves and muscles were intact and there was sufficient skin to close the opening without skin grafts.

A second hurdle had to be faced the next day when the physicians said additional major surgery probably would be needed to save the infant's life due to a fluid buildup inside her skull.

Only one in 100 babies who are born with Angela's type of birth defect escapes this kind of surgery, known as a shunt operation — the insertion of a tube behind the ear which allows excess fluid to drain.

This surgery should be done in the first 10 days of life and usually is considered unnecessary if not required in the first three months.

Mrs. Owens went home believing Angela in the hospital, still uncertain and disturbed about her tiny daughter's future.

The couple and their two other daughters, Pam and Teresa, who were 10 and 8, respectively, at that time, belonged to the High Street Baptist Church in Springfield, where special prayer services were held for the infant Angela.

"The prayers of church members, relatives and friends sustained us during that difficult time," Mr. and Mrs. Owens say.

Angela's miraculous story, as her parents state, continued to unfold. After 10 days she came home from the hospital without having to undergo the shunt operation.

She was the first baby the neurosurgeon had cared for who, having been born with an open spine, did not have to undergo the shunt surgery.

When Angela was seven weeks old she had to have surgery again. This was unrelated, however, to the spinal birth defect.

The infant's stomach muscles were too large, causing the opening into the stomach to be constricted and not allowing enough food to enter. The operation was successful.

When the tiny girl showed no signs of needing the shunt operation after three months, the Owens family was able to breathe more easily for the first time and they continued to offer prayers for their "miracle."

Angela began talking earlier than either of her two older sisters and continued to develop mentally in a perfectly normal manner.

There is no indication that Angela has suffered any mental retardation at all.

Few of the other dire predictions heard at her birth have materialized.

She does have a recurrent kidney infection and every day has to take medication to slow down the circulation of fluids in her system.

She was placed in braces up to her knees and nearly two years ago was changed to braces which extend from the feet to the hips.

Angela began walking almost immediately the braces were equipped, with few problems at all, her parents said.

Without braces, Angela cannot stand up, but she can crawl and climb on the furniture. With the braces and a walker she moves easily across a smooth surfaced floor.

Mr. and Mrs. Owens moved from Springfield to Salem in September 1975 and now operate the Lil' Ponderosa restaurant there.

The family is active in the Bethel Baptist Church in Salem, but still visit their former church and friends in Springfield.

On their last visit there, Angela walked for some of the church members after attending services.

Since Angela's birth, the Owens have become the parents of another daughter, Melissa, who is almost three.

Angela possibly will need physical therapy later to help her walk with fewer artificial aids.

Right now, the tiny girl is determined that she will walk alone some day.

With her family's faith to sustain her, the future can be full of miracles for the small girl.

Angela is the niece of Mrs. James (Beverly) Lemp, Miss Caroline Bellman and Donald Bellman, all of Granite City.

Granite City Press-Record Documents charge 3 in GC burglary case

Three men Granite City police allege having captured inside the Granite City Dental Lab, 1330a Nineteenth St., Monday morning, were named in informational documents issued by the Madison County state's attorney's office Monday afternoon charging them with burglary.

Steve D. Campbell, 24, of 116 Reynolds St., Madison, Ronald A. Killian, 23, of 2112 Birch Ave., and James R. Legate, 22, who told police he has no permanent address, were charged after evidence in the case was presented to a warrant officer in the state's attorney's office.

A burglar alarm first brought police to the building and officers surrounded the building, which also houses the Washington Theater, after it was discovered a cover had been removed from a coal chute and that a second floor window had been broken.

Officers entered the building and alleged finding the three trying to hide in separate rooms.

Woman eludes police after taking wallet

A woman in her 50s who stole a wallet at P. N. Hirsch Co., 1317 Nineteenth St., at 10:25 a.m. Monday eluded an intensive police search of the downtown area.

The wallet, which contained about $170, was left accidentally on a checkout counter by Reta Favier, 6 Nassau St., and the clerk was asking customers if the wallet was theirs.

A black woman wearing glasses and a white cloth turban over her hair said the wallet was hers and left several items on the checkout counter as she left with the wallet, saying she would be right back.

Reta Favier then returned to the store, saying she had left her wallet on the counter. Police were notified and searched the downtown area. One woman matching the description was questioned, but found to be the wrong woman.

Officers were told the woman who took the purse was husky and had a long brown coat.

February births down slightly

Births in the Quad-City area during February declined slightly below those of the same month in 1977, according to a vital statistics report released by City Clerk Robert Stevens.

The report shows a total of 68 births last month, a decrease of seven below the 75 reported in February 1977. There were 39 deaths in February this year, up one from the 38 occurring in February last year.

Stevens reported there were not fetal loss month, compared to one during February 1977.

The February statistics brought to 120 the total number of births during the first two months of the year, a total of 94 deaths and two fetal loss.

PROBATION ORDERED

George Howell, 19, of 126 Lee Wright Homes, Venice, has been sentenced in Madison County Circuit Court at Edwardsville to serve two years of probation after pleading guilty to burglary. He allegedly was caught after a burglary Aug. 31, 1977. The sentence was pronounced by Circuit Judge Joseph J. Barr.

Madison man hurt in disturbance

Charles Wilson, 27, of 1943 Second St., Madison, who also gave authorities an address at 2012 Manley Ave., was injured during a disturbance at West Chain of Rocks Road and Route 3 during the weekend.

Wilson said he was riding with a relative when a disagreement developed and they stopped the auto. Madison County sheriff's deputies were called to the scene and questioned a 34-year-old Granite City man, but no charges have been filed, a spokesman said.

Wilson was taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital where he was treated for cuts to his left eyelid and he was released.

Ease requirements for black lung benefits

Congressman Melvin Price (D-23rd Illinois) has announced that as a result of legislation enacted by Congress, the eligibility requirements for receiving black lung disease benefits have been liberalized.

"Not only are the eligibility requirements less restrictive," Price said, "but each individual claimant has been denied will be given an opportunity for an automatic review."

The new policies are a result of reform in the area of black lung benefits as a result of the passage of the Black Lung Benefits Act of 1977. Approximately 285,000 claims are being reviewed by the Social Security Administration and the Department of Labor.

"All claimants who have been denied benefits will be receiving a letter from either the Social Security Administration or the Department of Labor, depending on when they filed for benefits," outlining the procedures for review.

Claimants should read these letters carefully so that they will understand what is happening to their claims," Congressman Price stated.
